MOUNT ETNA VOLCANO IN ERUPTION; TOWN IS WRECKED

Thousands of People in Flight From Destroying
Streams of Lava

LONDON, June 18.—An unconfirmed report reached Rome from Naples this afternoon that Linguaglossa, a community of 13,000 souls, has been totally destroyed by molten lava from Mount Etna, said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Rome this evening. A portion of Cerro was said to have been wiped out also. The flow of lava continues.

A later Exchange Telegraph dispatch said that a fifth fissure had opened up in the crater, and a stream of lava was seen belching forth to re-inforce the flaming river already flowing down the mountainside.

Troops were despatched in the direction of Linguaglossa, with motor cars, to aid the people in their flight. Up to the time the Exchange Telegraph dispatch had been filed in Rome, no loss of life had been reported, nor had official confirmation been received that Linguaglossa was destroyed.

Advices from Catania described pitiful scenes in the region of the volcano, especially in Linguaglossa, where terror-stricken women, clasping babies in their arms, rushed into the churches to pray for safety.

The Fascists are aiding in the rescue work, and government funds have been placed at the disposal of the refugees.

Steady Stream of Lava
CATANIA, Italy, June 18.—Eruption of the volcano Etna grew more violent this afternoon threatening the villages of Castiglione and Linguaglossa. Residents of both places have fled. At latest reports the lava was only about half a mile distant.

Molten lava was pouring from four craters in a steady stream 350 yards wide, which advanced at the rate of 300 yards an hour destroying everything in its path.

In Violent Eruption
CATANIA, Italy, June 18.—The northeast section of Mount Etna's crater was in violent eruption today and a stream of lava destroyed the Castiglione depot.

Several streams of lava burst from the crater on Sunday, accompanied by loud explosions. Molten streams swept over woods and fields obstructing the railroad line. The district about Linguaglossa was menaced.

Population in Flight
LONDON, June 18.—A river of molten lava from Mount Etna has cut off communication between Messina and Catania, said a Central News dispatch from Rome today. The population is in flight and the roads are filled with vehicles.

A later Central News dispatch said that lava had begun to surround Linguaglossa and that houses were collapsing.

Explosions and showers of flaming embers from the crater caused much excitement among the residents of Messina, but the authorities assured them they were safe. Linguaglossa lies twenty-three miles north of Catania and has a population of about 13,000.

Henry Ford Not Candidate For U. S. Presidency

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 18.—Henry Ford will NOT be a candidate for the presidency in 1924. The Detroit manufacturer so declared just before leaving the city today. Ford had conducted a three-day search in western Massachusetts towns for additions to his collection of antiques.

"I have no desire to be president of the United States," he said. "I am too much occupied with my own affairs to become the next president, and I do not intend to run. All this talk you hear about me as a candidate is false."

Referring to the Ku Klux Klan, Ford said: "I never belonged to any organization and never intend to. I think the Ku Klux Klan is un-American, and if I join any organization it would be one that wouldn't require me to wear a mask."

FOURTEEN FIGHT FOR U. S. SENATE

Battle Royal Under Way in
State of Minnesota;
Outcome in Doubt

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service
WASHINGTON, June 18.—Political leaders of every shade of opinion in Washington had their ears cocked to the northwest today, where Minnesota is witnessing a battle royal for the senate seat left vacant by the death of the venerable Knute Nelson.

The result in the gopher state's primary today is expected to afford an illuminating insight into the political temper of the grain belt and the political map-makers of the capital will chart their respective courses for 1924 with an eye on what is revealed in today's primary and next month's election.

Fourteen Minnesotans are in the field for the Nelson seat, nine Republicans, two Democrats and three Farmer-Labor candidates. No political leader of any consequence could be found in the capital today who would hazard an opinion as to the outcome. It is an off year puzzle which defies analysis, they declared.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—Mrs. Alfred Ey was at a complete loss today to explain the disappearance of her husband from the steamship Yale, en route from Los Angeles to San Francisco. His absence was discovered late Saturday when the vessel docked here. Ey, for ten years clerk in the customs service, had been in ill health, and was on a month's leave of absence. He had visited his parents in Anaheim. Ey's personal effects were found intact in his stateroom.

Poet's Daughter, Parked On Balcony, Grabs Publicity

LOS ANGELES, June 18.—Juinita Miller, daughter of the late Joaquin Miller, "bard of the Sierras," has staged a quick transition from a "nature girl" to an accomplished publicity-getter. Today she was "parked" on a balcony, 200 feet high, at the Goldwyn Studio and refuses to come down. She has been there since Saturday when she was persuaded to climb the stone steps to the present perch to appear as an "extra" in a picture.

Five Hurt In Birthday Celebration

CAR PLUNGES 75 FEET IN MIDNIGHT OUTING

Auto Goes Over Embankment and All Passengers
Taken to Hospital

PLUNGING over a seventy-five foot embankment in the Big Tujunga canyon early yesterday morning, a party of Los Angeles people lie in the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, with two members severely injured.

John Rea, whose address is given as 412 North Lincoln Park avenue, is unconscious and may die. One leg, a hip and an arm and his lower jaw are broken and he is suffering from countless abrasions and contusions.

Ole Olsen, 748 North Lincoln Park avenue, was practically scalped in his plunge from the machine over the rocks of the canyon wash, through which the car traversed. He will carry permanent scars.

E. R. Warthen, 2722 East Fourth street, is suffering from severe bruises, but miraculously escaped the wreckage and sent word for assistance.

His pretty wife and her friend, Margaret Zanetti, are in the hospital here, horribly bruised and cut, yet they are able to tell of "going over a big hill after which they forgot everything."

Birthday Celebration
The party started Saturday night with a celebration in honor of Mrs. Warthen, for it was her birthday. Her husband invited Rea and Olsen to join in the jamboree which ended with the suggestion that they take a trip to the mountains.

Olsen and Rea provided the car, Mrs. Warthen stating it was a rented machine. Over hill and dale they traveled at high speed, and out into the fastnesses of Tujunga, where the rainbows and moonshine are most entrancing.

Gets Call for Aid
It must have been after midnight when they plunged over the embankment and at 1:30 a. m. the Glendale police department received the call for aid. By 4 o'clock the party was returned to the hospital here.

From the tangled statements regarding the affair, it would appear that the party was convivial, as well as congenial, and for a birthday celebration it was a sad success.

Coote, broker, was closed today and application for a receiver to take charge of his business was to be filed in federal court, according to a statement issued from Coote's office. Maniac Injects Poison In Arm Of Nurse, Fear

OKLAND, Calif., June 18.—A police guard was stationed at the nurses' home of the East Bay Sanitarium early today following an attack of a supposed maniac on Miss Violet Atkins, 18 year old nurse as she walked from the hospital to the nurses' quarters a few yards away.

She was seized, she declared, by a man who plunged a hypodermic needle in her arm declaring:

"I am going to get even. One of you killed my wife. It may as well be you."

The nurse fled into the hospital and collapsed. Her condition is being carefully watched in order to determine whether a poison was injected.

ROTARIANS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

Ten Thousand Delegates at Convention; St. Louis Is Enthusiastic Host

By W. F. SULLIVAN
For International News Service

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 18.—Rotary International claimed this city today, and the city acclaimed them by throwing wide open its municipal doors to the visitors.

Ten thousand strong, the delegates to the fourteenth annual convention marched upon the city coming from all points of the compass. Twenty-two nations are represented in the massive gathering, and practically every large city in the United States had its delegation on hand.

Gay With Decorations
Gaily festooned with flags, banners and bunting, the streets took on a carnival appearance for the swarm of delegates. Every incoming train today was bringing additional numbers to swell the attendance at the Coliseum, which the visitors will claim the entire week. Numerous delegations from the larger cities of the country came in special trains.

The morning and afternoon was taken up by formalities and registration of the visitors, as the meeting was not to be officially opened until tonight.

The convention opening will be inaugurated by a pageant, "The Rotary Garden of Nations," in which twenty-nine girls in Grecian dancing costumes, representing the actual scope of the Rotarians, will dance forth at the blare of trumpets.

Officers in Battle With Burglar Gang

LOS ANGELES, June 18.—Following a sensational revolver battle in the University district early today, a gang of burglars escaped with two automobile loads of loot from the Mission Hosiery Mills on South Moneta avenue.

Neighbors notified the police the hosiery mills had been entered and the battle took place when three officers surprised the thieves as they were driving away with their loot. Officers punctured the fleeing car and wounded at least one of its occupants, it is believed. The machine used by the robbers succeeded in fleeing from the officers but was later found abandoned. The loot had disappeared.

GLENDALE REALTY BOARD FORGETS BUSINESS CARES AND OBSERVES JINKS DAY

Picnic Program Full Of Features, Including
Ball Game That's Riot and 'Operation'
Productive Of Laughs and Things

By RALPH A. LYND
Of The Evening News Staff

THE members of the Glendale Realty Board who gathered with their families at Verdugo Park on Saturday afternoon for their annual Jinks Day, put on a picnic and a program that was a riot from the first ball that was pitched in the ball game between the women and the men until the last note of the dance music sounded in the big pavilion at night. You never can tell anything about the latent qualities of a man until you get him out on an occasion such as that of Saturday. To sit in the weekly luncheons of the Realty Board and hear the manner in which many of the members take their business affairs, one would suppose that some of them never could see the light side of things, but the star performers of Saturday numbered among their ranks some of those who, on ordinary occasions, would appear to be taking life seriously.

W. L. Truitt showed up in the costume of a hick sheriff, with a little chin whisker and a tin badge and a packet of eating tobacco, but as he had not had sufficient practice to enable him to develop team work between the whisksers and the tobacco, he compromised by throwing away the breakfast food and retaining the brush. Pete Hansen was another who shed his customary dignity and reserve and stepped into the limelight with a line of specialties that ranged all the way from Swede monologues to revival sermons, while Councilman W. A. Horn's new putties came in for their share of attention. Bill Twining, not content with putting on a larger and brighter red necktie than usual, had to go and borrow a megaphone to ballyhoo through while he directed the activities of the rest of the crowd and kept them on the jump.

Women Win Ball Game
The chief event of the afternoon was the ball game between Elsa Jane's team of women and a team picked from among the men, but Elsa Jane had the umpire, W. E. Sawyer, on her side, so the men were lucky to get the short end of the 36 to 3 score by which the game was won by the women. Sawyer simply threw right and justice to the winds and gave decisions that surprised even the most hardened people present, and the way he acted is believed to have seriously set back the efforts that the members of the Realty Board have been making to inculcate a higher standard of morality and square dealing among its members.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The state of Kansas, through its legal representatives, today notified the United States Supreme Court that it would NOT ask a rehearing of the case involving the constitutionality of the civil court law. VOTE IN MINNESOTA REPORTED LIGHT
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 18.—In spite of intensive campaigns for several weeks by fourteen candidates in three parties for party nominations for United States senator, voting today in Minnesota's state-wide primary was light, with one of the smallest total volumes ever recorded in a primary election in the state expected. The Republican, Farmer-Labor and Democratic parties are each to choose one candidate today to contest July 16 for the unexpired senatorial term of the late Knute Nelson.

May Ask U. S. To Act As Arbiter In Ruhr Crisis

LONDON, June 18.—Persistent reports were current here this afternoon that Great Britain has informally sounded Washington as to whether the United States would be willing to act as arbiter in the Ruhr reparations crisis.

While the origin of these reports was not determined, they are believed to have arisen from Premier Stanley Baldwin's speech Saturday when he said the whole world was looking to Great Britain and America for salvation.

Another interpretation placed upon the speech was that Great Britain may seek co-operation of the United States in the event of an Anglo-French break-up in the Ruhr issue.

Premier Baldwin's communication to Belgium proposes that France and Belgium guarantee "invisible occupation" on condition Germany annuls order for passive resistance in the Ruhr.

HOME RULE FOR ALASKA, IS PLEA

Congressional Party, Back
From Far North Trip
Tells Conditions

SEATTLE, Wash., June 18.—Alaska's greatest need is home rule—with a resultant elimination of red tape, which now throttles the northern territory. This was the opinion expressed here today by the five Senators and twenty-six congressmen who have just returned to Seattle from a two weeks' tour of Alaska.

Congressman Cyrenus Cole, of Iowa, came out strongly in favor of developing Alaska on a larger scale than heretofore attempted. He deplored the exaggerated conservation policy which has been pursued, which, he said, actually resulted in more waste than conservation.

The lawmakers, who traveled the entire length of the government railroad from Seward to Fairbanks, expressed themselves as having been amazed by the great wealth of the country and declared that the next Congress would have at least thirty-one firm friends in Alaska.

THOUSANDS SEE BIG BRUSH FIRE

Flames Furnish Spectacle
To Great Crowds Sunday
In Eagle Rock

Brush fire starting in weeds at the west end of York boulevard in Southern Eagle Rock yesterday morning swept north for two miles and devastated the hills south of Colorado boulevard. Fire departments from Eagle Rock and High Park were called out to battle the flames and hundreds of people who have homes in the hills joined in the fight. Thousands of spectators watched the flames ignite tall eucalyptus trees and shoot over the hilltop like Fourth of July pyrotechnics. The blaze was not brought into control until late last night when the wind subsided. It is estimated that three hundred acres of hilltop are charred today and quite a little damage done to fences etc. Responsibility for the fire could not be learned.

Gas Price Crisis Near Claim of Independents

More power to your motorcars. Action within the next forty-eight hours by the big four oil producers and refiners is predicted here today in the gasoline price war. It is believed ruthless price cutting is at hand by those conversant with the situation as the chain stations cannot get 19 cents when independents are selling three or four cents less on the gallon.

Beverly Hills Scene of
Crash; Gasoline Fire
Hampers Rescue

LOS ANGELES, June 18.—Two unidentified persons were killed and at least twelve injured today when a two-car Pacific Electric train on the Sawtelle line crashed into a heavy motor car at a crossing near Beverly Hills, dragged the automobile nearly 200 feet along the tracks, crashing against a telegraph pole, causing the forward car of the train to leave the rails and overturn.

A woman who was driving the automobile and who is believed to be Mrs. Harry McAfee, wife of an architect for the Lake Arrowhead company, was instantly killed. A man passenger on the interurban train was also reported dead. His body was taken from the scene of the wreck by a truck driver.

It is reported this afternoon that the dead man's name is Vernon Grey.

Auto Catches Fire
An explosion of gasoline in the automobile set it on fire and the flames spread rapidly to the overturned street car, imperiling the lives of many passengers who were trapped in the wreckage. According to H. E. Weiner, an eye-witness to the crash, the woman stalled her machine on the car tracks in front of the oncoming electric train.

The automobile, which was completely wrecked, was registered to Harry McAfee of Lake Arrowhead.

Thundering Crash
When the automobile struck the telephone pole with a thundering crash, the front of the forward electric car was lifted by the impact from the rails and rolled over on its side, shattering windows and partially demolishing it. Flames from the automobile soon enveloped the front end of the electric car, hampering efforts of motorists who dragged the injured persons from the wreckage.

Social Events

Banquet Success

The Mothers' and Daughters' banquet, given last Friday night, at the Central Christian church, under the auspices of the Christian Circle club, proved an unusually enjoyable affair.

There were nearly two hundred seated at the long banquet tables, artistically decorated in the club colors, pink and lavender. Dainty favors in the same color scheme were also used. The social hall had been transformed into a bower of fragrant flowers in the club colors.

Shortly after 6:30 o'clock an excellent meal was served by the ladies of the First Presbyterian church.

The address of the evening was given by Annie Paul Cason, dean of women of the Christian college of Los Angeles.

The following toasts were given: Toast to the Mothers, by Miss Helen Robinson, president of the club; toast to the Girls by Mrs. Blake Franklin; toast to the Churches by Mrs. C. A. Cole, and a toast to the Club, by Miss Mildred Thompson.

Later in the evening a short program was enjoyed which included piano numbers by Miss Hazel Owens, readings by Mrs. MacKah, violin solos by Miss Dorothy Watson and vocal solos by Miss Elizabeth Mottern. Miss Selma Carver served as accompanist.

This was the last meeting for the season, but early in the fall the club will meet as usual, it is announced.

Wed On Sunday

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Clara E. Cunningham, daughter of Mrs. F. Sesma of Los Angeles, and Herman Paine of 339 North Maryland avenue, at a ceremony taking place Sunday morning, June 17, 1923, at 7 o'clock at the home of the bride, 5336 Brynhurst avenue, Los Angeles.

The wedding ceremony was read by an out-of-town Congregational minister, Rev. Lutman, a friend of the bride's family. The bride's brother, Thomas Cunningham, served as best man and Miss Gladys Ficks of Los Angeles was maid of honor. Only immediate relatives and a few close friends of the bride party witnessed the ceremony.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Paine left via automobile on a short wedding trip. Upon their return they will occupy the Paine residence for the summer during Mr. and Mrs. Paine's absence.

Plan for Party

Elaborate plans for the moonlight garden party Wednesday night, June 27, at the William B. Roberts house, are being completed by members of the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, and Mrs. Warren Roberts, curator, reports a gratifying sale of tickets.

The garden party will be the third large social affair in which Mrs. Roberts has had prominence during the month of June. Last week, as curator of the music section, she presided over the luncheon of the section at the Mattison B. Jones home.

Then on Friday night she served as chairman of the committee arranging the delightful banquet of the Omar Shrine, No. 9, White Shrine of Jerusalem. Mrs. Roberts and her assistants are receiving compliments for their part in the affair, featured by the initiation of five candidates from Eagle Rock.

Many Hear Singer
Mrs. Gretta Cordary captivated her many friends last Saturday evening when Mrs. Virginia Freeman presented her in a song recital at the Chamber of Commerce hall.

Mrs. Cordary demonstrated a glorious contralto voice, with a warmth and sympathetic quality that appears destined to bring her many laurels.

Her arias, from "Samson et Delilah" and "La Favorita" were brilliantly executed. Mrs. Cordary is a promising pupil of Mrs. Virginia Freeman's and attributes much of her success to her teacher.

Mrs. Roberta Young, well-known musician, assisted as accompanist.

Arrange Dance

The Maids' and Young Matrons' section of the Tuesday Afternoon club are entertaining their friends at the clubhouse tonight, June 18, with a dance. Music for the dancing will be furnished by Jerry Parker's Jazz orchestra. This is the last social affair the section will give this season and is strictly an invitation affair.

Elaborate plans have been made by the committee chairman in charge of the affair which include Mesdames Claude Putnam, Charles Meadows, E. B. Sutton, H. D. Charlton, Charles Carroll, DeForest Rogers and Herbert Reid.

Final Meeting

The last meeting of the year of the Cerritos Avenue Parent-Teachers' Association will be held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the school. The program will be given by the fifth and sixth graders. The social hour will follow the program and the hospitality chairman, Mrs. J. W. Cleland, is promising a surprise for the members and guests.

Children's Party

A party by the Parent-Teacher association for the school children is to take place tomorrow at the Grand View school at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Each room will take part in the program. R. Ernest Tucker is to lead singing, and all parents are invited to attend.

Surprise Affair

On being summoned to the phone at the home of C. A. Bowen, 212 West Garfield, Saturday night, Miss Mary Ostergard, of 211 West Garfield, whose marriage to Alvin Hall is to take place June 25, was greatly surprised to find herself the complimented guest of about twenty-five friends who had been invited by Mrs. C. A. Bowen and Miss Marie Bowen for the occasion.

The rooms were most attractively decorated in a red and white color scheme, carried out in crepe paper and flowers.

Two little girls, Anna Louise Muhleman and Doll Williams, attired in white frocks with red sashes, were the bearers of a large white basket decorated in red, which contained the gifts which were presented to Miss Ostergard by friends, some of whom were unable to be present.

Music and games were the diversion of the evening. Sandwiches, cake and fruit punch were served by the hostesses.

Those invited by Mrs. Bowen and Miss Bowen to honor Miss Ostergard were Mr. and Mrs. Fairburn, Mr. and Mrs. J. Fellows, Mr. and Mrs. Christianson, Helen Christianson, Mr. and Mrs. Amel Goodrich, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Luttrell, all of Burbank; Dr. and Mrs. V. Hunter Brink, Mr. and Mrs. Shinner, Mr. and Mrs. Ripley, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Kern, Mr. and Mrs. John Stratten, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Elsie Moore, Mrs. Genevieve Marek, Mrs. A. Ostergard, Miss Emily Kopp, Misses Helen Muhleman, Anna Louise Muhleman, Mildred Williams, Doll Williams, Clark Bowen, Ernest Bowen, Frank Shinner, and Edward Cason of Upland.

An interesting feature of the occasion was that Miss Bowen, one of the hostesses, will be a bride before the honoree. The marriage of Miss Bowen and Edward Cason is announced for June 20.

Father's Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Faulkner of 332 1/2 street, entertained Saturday night at their home with a dinner party in honor of Mrs. Faulkner's father, E. D. Reynolds, birthday anniversary.

The decorations were artistically carried out in pink and white with roses and carnations. The table appointments were also carried out in the same dainty color scheme. A lovely angel food cake decorated in pink and white and lighted with candles formed the table center piece.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds are old residents of Glendale, having resided here for the past twenty years, and during the day Mr. Reynolds receiving many birthday greetings from his many friends.

Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Reynolds, Mrs. Julia R. Beers, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Reynolds, Miss Marian Faulkner, and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Faulkner. J. F. Reynolds and Mrs. Beers are brother and sister of the honoree.

Evening Ceremony

Rev. V. Hunter Brink, pastor of the Central Avenue Methodist church, performed the ceremony at 6 o'clock last night, Sunday, June 17, 1923, at the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Ingram, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Ingram, to James T. Griffin, son of Mrs. Ella Griffin of 130 West Acacia avenue. The wedding took place at the Ingram home at 359 West Harvard street. There were twenty relatives and friends present.

The Ingram family march was played by Miss Dorothy Lee. Miss Ingram, who was unattended, wore a gown of white Canton crepe with silk lace panels. She also wore a wedding veil and carried a bouquet of white roses and fern.

A luncheon followed the ceremony and Mr. and Mrs. Griffin left later in the evening for a short trip. They are to reside in Glendale at 130 West Acacia avenue. Mr. Griffin is in the employ of the Los Angeles-Glendale Transportation company.

News of Wedding

Of unusual interest to Glendale residents is the announcement of the marriage of Mrs. Ethel R. Dietrich, Glendale business woman, to Perry E. Gaskill, recently of Ogden, Utah. The ceremony took place Friday afternoon, June 15, 1923, at the Dietrich home at 1222 South Glendale avenue, with Dr. Henry Rasmus, Sr., pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating.

The wedding company included Mrs. Dietrich's children, Norma, Elwood, Dorothy and Ruth Dietrich; Howell Clark of Porterville; and Mrs. Sarah Manning of Pasadena.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaskill are now enjoying a two weeks' trip and upon their return will reside at 1229 South Glendale avenue.

Mrs. Gaskill will continue her activities as director of the Dietrich Realty company at 133 South Brand boulevard.

Luncheon-Bridge

Miss Dorothy Vogel of 410 North Jackson street, was hostess Saturday at a luncheon and bridge at the Ambassador hotel, honoring Miss Marjorie Prince, who is to become the bride of Warden Crumley June 25, and Miss Anne Masters, who leaves shortly for an eastern trip.

Glendale guests were Miss Margaret Studebaker, Mrs. J. S. Zimmer, Mrs. Elizabeth Gray and Mrs. Mildred Vogel.

All Day Meeting

Mrs. L. D. Hyers, of 1905 Gardena avenue, will be hostess tomorrow at an all-day meeting of the aid society of the Tropic Presbyterian church.

BRIEF PROTESTS

RAISE IN RATES

California Industries Are

Threatened by High

Express Charges

Certain California industries are suffering as the result of high express rates, while many shipments that should go by express are being sent by freight, the Railroad Commission of California declares in its brief in the nationally important express rate case, which has been forwarded by the commission to the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington.

Not only is a great amount of California products, that should be shipped by express, being diverted to freight lines, but certain California industries find it impossible to continue shipping their products, since the door has been closed to them by high express rates, the brief, which was prepared by Hugh Gordon, chief counsel of the commission, points out.

Mr. Gordon prepared this brief not only for the California Railroad Commission, but as chief counsel for all the western states, which have joined with California in asking the Interstate Commerce Commission to lower express rates, or at least not to advance the rates.

Three States Protest
California, Oregon and Washington, which comprise the fifth zone of the five zones into which the country is divided in the fixing of express rates, have also joined together specifically to oppose the threatened raise in express rates, and to ask the Interstate Commerce Commission to place in effect a lower schedule of express rates, as compared with the rates in zones Nos. 1 and 2. These zones comprise the states east of the Mississippi, north of the Potomac and Ohio rivers, and south of the Potomac and Ohio rivers, respectively.

The brief shows that the express business in the Pacific Coast states is twenty per cent more profitable than that in the North Atlantic states, yielding a higher return on shipment and costing less per shipment than in the eastern states; that the western states express business is twenty-three per cent more profitable than the eastern states business, and sixteen per cent more profitable than the southern states express business.

It is asserted that if the present rates are retained by the Interstate Commerce Commission it will result in a revenue to the express company producing more than a fair return on its investment, after paying adequate compensation to the railroads for the express privilege.

The Will Kill Business
The improved condition of the transportation business of the country the last half of 1922 and the first half of 1923 is called to the attention of the federal body. The point is also emphasized that high transportation costs will result in the termination of the day anniversary. Covers were laid for Captain and Mrs. C. E. Cheno-weth and children, Charlene and Buddy, and Mrs. and Mrs. Charles Bond and Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Rowe.

Rebekahs Meet

The final meeting of the Carnation Rebekah lodge under the regime of Mrs. Loretta Schwitters, noble grand, will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Odd Fellows' hall, when five candidates will be initiated.

Members of the initiation team have been asked to meet at the hall at 7 o'clock.

Installation of the new officers will take place July 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl W. Schwitters, Mrs. and Mrs. Leonard Pease, Mrs. Rozella Strother, Mr. Stephens, Mrs. Evelyn Hall and Samuel Bronnburg of the local lodge motored to Pomona Saturday night to attend a special meeting, banquet and grand ball of the Pomona lodge. Mrs. Schwitters reports that they were royally entertained.

Would Slay Wife Who

Was Ticked by Uncle

AKRON, Ohio, June 18.—Should a man decapitate his wife because her uncle tickles her in the ribs?

Judge H. C. Spicer, of Summit County Domestic Relations Court, recently answered the question by granting Mrs. William Spangle a divorce on the grounds of extreme cruelty, in making such threats for such a cause. Her name is Myrtle, and she married William in Whotmer, W. Va., in 1915.

The rib tickling took place on her uncle's farm, where the couple were visiting. The uncle is 35 years old and good looking, which may have had weight with William. She said he "teased me, pulled my ears in a playful manner and gouged me in the ribs." For that Bill wanted her head, and now he has lost her altogether as a result of the court's decree.

SAFETY FIRST

Throw out the clutch when approaching a railroad crossing. This will eliminate all noises about the car, making it possible to listen for the sound of an approaching train. In coasting, however, do not allow the engine to idle so slowly that there is danger of its stalling.

TRIPLES VEHICLE TOTAL

Kentucky has increased its registration of cars and trucks more than three-fold in five years. In 1917 the total was 47,420, and in 1922 it reached a new record for the state of 154,021.

PROGRESS SHOWN

The population of Southern California has grown 650 per cent in the past twenty-two years, and in that period bank clearings have swelled 4065 per cent.

MONTROSE

MONTROSE C. OF C.
HOST AT DANCE

More Than 100 Couples Are Present at Social Affair
On Saturday Night

Booming Montrose enjoyed itself Saturday night at dance in the new Belanger building, opposite the Bank of Montrose, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. Kelly's Shrine club orchestra of Glendale was present to furnish the music for more than 100 couples who came from the neighborhood and La Crescenta and La Canyada.

James L. Brown, president of the Chamber of Commerce, gives all credit for the affair to Theo. Belanger, owner of the new brick block, and the entertainment committee composed of Mesdames Ellis, Turner and Potts.

Mr. Belanger announced that his son, Joseph E. Belanger, would open a drug store on the corner within the next fifteen days. He has just graduated from U. S. C. school of Pharmacy. Incidentally, he won one of the cakes which were auctioned off for benefit of the chamber, raising about $20.

Credit to Community
The cakes were donated by George Charbonneau, owner of "George's Place" at Montrose, who opened up the Blue Bird cafe in the Belanger block Saturday. He has seating capacity for fifty people.

Both the cafe and drug store will be a credit to the community. And with a bank, grocery stores, garages and other institutions already established there is no question but what Montrose is bound to be one of the liveliest centers in the vicinity of Glendale.

COURT OF HONOR
HELD BY SCOUTS

Work of Boys Is Praised by
J. S. McGroarty in Speech at Council

"Thank God America has boys growing up like you," stated John McGroarty last night at the La Crescenta school, when addressing an audience of more than 300 people, who had gathered for the Court of Honor session of the Verdugo Hills District Boy Scout Council.

Mr. McGroarty made a stirring talk on Americanism and the conservation of the forests. "After seeing this demonstration of Scouting," he asserted, "I have new faith in America's future. I salute you, Boy Scouts!"

Francis J. W. Henry, the official pep promoter, led the singing, and the Boy Scout orchestra of Troop No. 2 of Glendale played some new numbers.

C. W. Angier, scoutmaster of the La Crescenta troop, made the address of welcome. Carl Woolley of the La Crescenta troop played a piano solo. Harry Townsend sang a solo, accompanied by Mrs. C. W. Angier on the piano.

Rev. A. H. Kelso, who has just returned from attending the Presidential conference, gave the invocation. Frank C. Ayars, chairman of the council, read the 1923 co-operative troop camp to be held near Lake Arrowhead.

The Court of Honor session was in charge of Captain William C. Wattles.

Labor Shortage Halts

N. Y. Highway Work

ALBANY, June 18.—Because of the great scarcity of the "pick and shovel" labor and the refusal of contractors to submit proposals for new roads, together with what is regarded as abnormal conditions in transportation and materials, $16,000,000 in new highway construction has been delayed by Highway Commissioner Stuart Greene.

An Irish Jaunting Cart
Read Ads And Save Money
America Should Lead
Glendale Not Unlike Jonah
By Gil A. Cowan

An Irish jaunting cart—if you know what we mean—is to be seen occasionally on the road to Griffith park. We saw it the other evening with the old horse trotting along just as happy with eight people aboard as though there had been but two in a buggy back of him.

It is set us to thinking, this jaunting cart. Just how many odd things are to be seen in the vicinity of Glendale, not to say anything about the cosmopolitan people who come to Southern California.

If you will watch closely the whole world seems to have lent its most unique attributes to the success of Southern California. Take real estate offices and architecture in general. There is the canon? flared French type ying with a King Tut looking Egyptian building.

Perhaps the movies in our midst make us that way, but more likely it is the population assembled here—the most brilliant and ablest and wealthiest of the world, it would seem. We might mention a few, but what's the use.

Every once in a while we hear a story with a moral to it, as George Ade would point out at the end of his fable.

A man who was building a home subscribed to The Glendale Evening News. He watched the advertising columns very closely and in the liners one day he found he could buy enough second-hand lumber for all the rough material he needed at a saving of $150.

It was necessary for him to tear down an old ranch house on Alameda avenue, this side of Burbank, but it was well worth the effort when he had the time, but no money to speak of. Now that he has the home built, he says: "A person can't afford to be without The Glendale Evening News. It shows you how to save money as well as giving you the facts about everything going on here and in the world at large."

It made the writer believe there was something worthy to a profession which would teach people thrift, educate them and entertain them, all in one. That is what a newspaper does, alright.

The Bulgarians, of buttermilk fame, are making a mess of things here in Europe. If they cannot keep the peace, they will start a war. The intervention on the part of the other Balkan states is threatened, and that is apt to be the spark for another bloody war.

With such a situation existing there is no need for America to consider entering a World Court or League of Nations. It wants to remain on the sidelines and be the judge, throwing its strength to the side that is in the right always.

The officials of the United States government should hold the position that this nation is a beacon light for civilization; that it is the best, the most powerful country on earth. Never should we accept Great Britain as our guiding spirit. We should lead, not necessarily in commerce, but in the fight for freedom and justice.

Therefore we should be no part of old world quarrels, but always stand ready to mediate or conciliate. That would be a great duty for this nation in affairs of the universe. It has done so before. Why not continue the policy, reaffirming the Monroe doctrine and harking to the wisdom of Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

Glendale enjoys a unique location. Looking to the west, we see Los Angeles; looking to the east we find the encroachment of the metropolis; and we do not need look to the south for we know that where Los Angeles is supposed to be. As far as looking to the north, the Verdugo mountains in the way. And only when we look northwest and see Burbank, or northeast and realize Pasadena's boundary adjoins that of Glendale, (with the exception of a little strip of county territory) do we feel that this city hasn't been completely swallowed by the whale.

As the matter now stands, Glendale is closer to the heart of Los Angeles than most of Los Angeles.

And it sure is good to hear the residents of the tracts south of the Southern Pacific railroad vow, "By rights we belong in Glendale."

Only one way that can be done, folks. We'll have to annex Los Angeles.

Burglars Get Jewels
In Mira Loma Home

Over $100 worth of jewelry was stolen from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Cleghorn at 314 Mira Loma Drive last week while the family was out of the city. They returned this morning and found that the house had been entered. Articles stolen included a watch belonging to Mrs. Cleghorn and a watch which had belonged to her mother and which was being treasured as a keepsake. Two children's banks were taken, also.

REAL BUSINESS

Contracting is a business and not a profession, is the belief of Godfrey Edwards, member of a prominent building firm. "And in just the degree that it ceases to be a business, it ceases to command the respect of the public," he declares.

With hatred we express an unforgiving attitude.

Narcisse Truitt, 1b; Earl Shook, p. and Sawyer, umpire.

Opposing him were Hopkins, c; Blackmore, p; Crowley, 3b; Reeves, rf; Bolen, ss; Stryker, 2b; Horn, lf; Kingsley, cf; Simpson, 1b; Pete Hansen also got into the game on the men's side, and A. C. Twining helped out on the other side.

Eloene Truitt was the Babe Ruth of the women's side, playing real, honest-to-goodness baseball, and swatting out a home run. Mrs. Champion, who was holding down third base for Elsa Jane's crowd, stole home from third base twice in one inning when the other side was at bat, but this was mainly due to the bum coaching of Bill Twining. In another inning, however, she evened things up by running around to third base and then stopping to talk clothes to Mrs. L. H. Wilson until three more of her own side had passed her and scored.

Iron Nerve Cracks

Sawyer's iron nerve broke under the bombardment of criticism that was leveled at him and Bill Twining started to call 'em in the sixth, but he was taken out to allow Sheriff Truitt to umpire in the ninth.

The same team of men started another game against another men's team after the comedy was over, the new team consisting of Thompson, 2b; Twining, 1b; McCartney, 3b; Hayward, lf; Miller, cf; Sullivan, ss; Schuyler, rf; Zook, c; Shook, p.

Charles B. Guthrie umpired the game during the two innings it lasted, during which Sullivan's team ran up a score of 13 to 2, and then the game was called to allow Dr. Jessie A. Russell's part of the program, the Women's Half Hour, to get under way.

Isa Jane told a funny story, Dr. Russell gave a dramatic reading, and then the crowd played one of those handkerchief chasing games that tried the wind and limb of some of the more sedentary members of the board to the limit.

Dinner was the next number, and the beans, cold meat, potato salad, pickles, rolls, ice cream, cake and coffee disappeared at a rate that kept Wm. McMillan and his staff hustling. Assisting him were Mrs. McMillan, Mrs. Wm. Sawyer, Mrs. E. L. Schuyler, Mrs. J. L. Vermette, Mrs. Peter Hansen and Mrs. W. A. Horn, and the food that was excellently prepared and efficiently served, vanished rapidly.

Barney Is Pinched

Pete Hansen's share of the program, the camp fire, was apparently interrupted when Sheriff Truitt pinched W. E. Barney with a deck of cards and a bottle of alleged drinkin' liquor in his pockets, and he was haled before Judge Mabel Tight on a charge of land, as well as having the other adjoints to a cheerful life in his possession. There was no lack of volunteer legal talent when the bottle of evidence was produced, but Barney decided to plead his own case against the prosecuting attorney, Dr. Jessie A. Russell, and was sentenced to pay fifteen dollars or serve fifteen days in jail. William Mac Mullin sampled the evidence and was seized with an acute attack of something that seemed to call for an immediate operation, and Surgeon Cam Thom opened him up with a brace and bit, a meat saw and other tools, it.

Memorial Services Are Held
For Deceased Veterans
At Encampment

C. Henry Clark, adjutant of the N. P. Banks post, G. A. R., reported to Glendale this morning from Santa Monica, where he is in attendance at the encampment of Southern California War Veterans at the Pacific Palisades. In giving account of Sunday activities at Camp Mr. Clark said:

"The veterans observed memorial for their departed comrades with an impressive service in the tabernacle, where the names of the deceased veterans were read. More than 100 have died since our last encampment."

"The sermon delivered by Chaplain C. R. Norton of the N. P. Banks post was, as usual, forceful and his words seemed inspired by the spirit of the occasion. The dress parade at 4 o'clock found 200 or more of the old boys in line keeping step to the music of the fife and drum. In the evening there was a song service, with address by Dr. Scott. There were many visitors entertained throughout the day. Tonight the entertainment will be in charge of the N. P. Banks post and corps of Glendale."

Accompanying Mr. Clark to Glendale was A. H. Cleveland, who fell last night and received slight injuries to his face. He was brought to his home at 363 West Lomita avenue, where he is resting easily.

Thief Secures $80
From Cash Drawer

About $80 was stolen from the cash register of the Glendale Feed & Fuel company of 106 South Glendale avenue Saturday during the noon hour. R. M. Brown had gone to lunch and Arnd Last of 133 South Adams street was waiting upon a customer in the warehouse, the office was entered and the till looted. The thief had gone when Mr. Last returned to the front of the establishment.

finding in him an assortment of plunder that did not rightly belong in the interior economy of any right-thinking realtor.

Pete Hansen and his megaphone gave a radio concert that panned a number of the leading members of the board for their activities, real or asserted, and this also was one of the big numbers of the evening.

The dancing followed in the pavilion, while the realtors who did not care to shake a foot hovered around on the outside and began to make some medicine that will have to be allowed several days to ferment before it is sprung on the public.

Taking it all around, the day was a signal success, and the Glendale Realty Board showed that its members can put on a picnic and an entertainment that will stand for a long time before any other organization stages anything that can tie it, let alone beat it.

GLENDALE BEATS ZELZAH, 13 TO 3

Locals Break Losing Streak In Batting Orgy at Tailenders' Lot

After three consecutive defeats Glendale came back with a bang and showed real form again when they traveled to Zelzah yesterday and took the long end of the 13 to 3 score. This game was a lung developer or field day for the Glendale squad, as nearly every player got his share of exercise that netted them thirteen runs.

Manager Walt Heidler worked on the mound and, although a little wild, held the cellar champs to six bingles. In the third inning, with two on bases Whittier, of the Zelzah squad connected with one of Walt's speed balls for a home run which, netted them their three runs. This made all the Zelzah haymaker rooters chew on their way of tobacco faster than ever before, but Walt then tightened up and spoiled their "funny" dreams.

The Glendale outfit looked like all "Babe Ruths" yesterday as Lefty Harrison and "Slim" Harris both connected for home runs, and Wilson "Shorty" Harrison, and even Manager Walt connected for three-base hits. And as for two-base hits, oh, well, they ran out of pencils.

Manager Walt says with, all that batting and base running practice yesterday, it ought to help a great deal in getting every player in good form for next Sunday's game, which is the biggest and most important game of the league. They take on San Fernando, the league's leading club, having lost but one game, same being the one in which Walt pitched that remarkable no hit game at San Fernando. This game will be played at the home lot at Park Avenue and San Fernando road next Sunday at 2:30 o'clock.

The Art Of "Timing" In Sport

By Wood Cowan

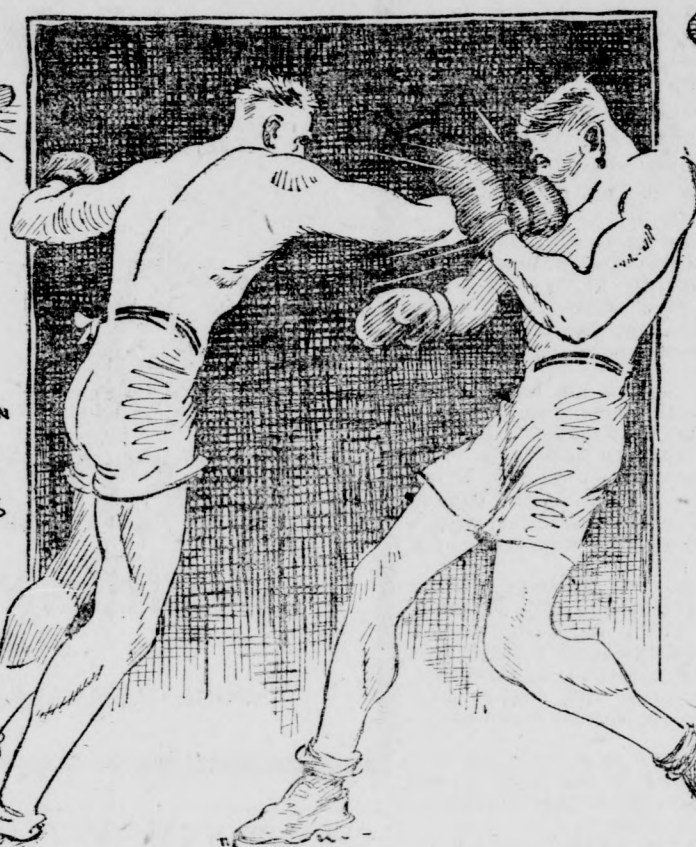

"BABY! I MET THAT ONE RIGHT ON THE TRADE MARK."

THAT EXQUISITE COORDINATION BETWEEN EYE AND MUSCLE THAT BABE RUTH GETS WHEN HIS SWINGING BAT MEETS THE BALL, IS WHAT PRODUCES HOME RUNS.

FOOTBALL HAS ITS TIMING OBJECT IN THE KICK. FEW HAVE EVER ACQUIRED THE KNACK—PERFECT EYE AND LEG CONTROL—BRICKLEY AND ECKERSALL CAME NEAR TO IT.

TO SNAP THE FIST AGAINST A CHIN AT THE PRECISE MOMENT WHEN THE WEIGHT OF A PIVOTING BODY IS ALL BEHIND THE PUNCH IS WHAT PRODUCES THE K.O. BLOW—NOT A HURRIED, SWEETENING, FLAYING SWING.

JOHNSTON, IN TENNIS, IS A SHINING EXAMPLE OF PERFECT TIMING—WEIGHING AROUND 135, HIS RETURNS COME LIKE A SHOT

THE SAME APPLIES EVEN MORE TO GOLF. THE DUFFER WHO CANNOT BE TAUGHT TO WHIP THE CLUB INTO THE BALL AT JUST THE RIGHT INSTANT WILL ALWAYS REMAIN A DUFFER.

There is scarcely a phase of any sport in which the art of timing does not play an essential part.

The co-ordination of the step and the whip of a pitcher's arm—the swish of a boot against a pigskin—the snapping sing as the racket meets a tennis ball—or the thud of a well-swinged blow as it lands flush on a chin—the effectiveness of all these and the perfect execution of innumerable other phases of sport depend on

TIMING.
By timing we mean the perfect

co-ordination between eye and muscle.

This gift may be a gift bestowed by the fates at birth—few acquire it. Long practice may bring it out. Practice will give the golfer perfect rhythm, the batter better balance, or the boxer more deceptive skill; but unless that precise co-ordination of eye and muscle is embodied in the physical make-up of a man, his ability in any sport is bound to be limited.

The longest driver in golf is not the strongest golfer physically. Bill Johnston, the physical tennis player, weighs but 135, yet he can send a ball over the net faster and under better control than men of 180 pounds. To see him in action proves that little effort is required to put speed into a ball if your timing is right.

The blow delivered with the greatest amount of force is never hurried.

Babe Ruth has the knack of timing his swing down to perfection. Walter Johnson couldn't help but be a great pitcher. Both had mastered the art before they were aware that such a thing as timing existed.

Johnson's loose free arm swing was timed to perfection to co-ordinate with a perfect step as he zipped the ball toward the plate. Few have ever equaled his speed, and no one ever has pitched with as little effort. That is why he has been a leading finger for so many years in the majors.

Timing your swing in golf means that you are out of the duffer class. The bird who cannot learn to snap the clubhead into the ball will always be trying to break a "100."

Time your swings and time your throws, if you want to get the edge on the other fellow in sport.

The signing of the new world's champion featherweight champion Eugene Ciriqli, to battle against Johnny Dundee on July 30 has inspired a number of boxing critics to write that the Frenchman will find Dundee a harder proposition than was the former champion, Kilbane. This is explained by reason of the fact that Kilbane had done but little and very indifferent fighting for the last few years and, on account of this, probably was not able to take the punishment he otherwise might have done. Some of these articles go so far as to say that they believe Ciriqli will come a cropper and his hard-earned laurels will repose on his brow but a few weeks.

We refuse to get excited over the fact that Dan Kenney, formerly professional at the Tyler Country Club at Houston, Texas, set a new world's record for Marathon golf when he went 216 holes without a stop. What of it? Some guy will come along and go 217. And then what? Oh, shucks!

Ad Wolgast, who ten years ago won the lightweight title with Battling Nelson, says he is willing to give the Battler a return match.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

By JACK KEENE

When Manager John McGraw of the New York Giants turned Rube Marquard over to Brooklyn, the Rube then and there vowed vengeance against McGraw.

Since Marquard joined the Dodgers he has tried and the Giants number of times and always seems to derive much satisfaction therefrom.

There are those who argue that McGraw is simply getting his just deserts for consigning Rube to a place like Brooklyn, Marquard always being very partial to the spotlight.

This year Marquard will be joined by two other pitchers in the plot to overthrow the Giants, Rube Benton and Fred Toney, former New York pitchers, complete the trio.

McGraw sent Rube Benton to the minors, when Benton was still some pitcher. Now he comes back to the National league as a member of the Cincinnati Reds. Denton says he is going to convince McGraw what an awful mistake he made by handing him a ticket to the bushes minus the return trip coupon.

After Fred Toney had flivvered against the Yankees in the 1921 world series McGraw traded the big pitcher to Boston. Toney refused to report, insisting he wouldn't be in the league if he joined Boston. The Braves finished such a bad last that Toney had close to the right dope.

Toney comes back to the National league a member of the St. Louis Cardinals. He is doing a comeback because he believes he can help such an event by trimming the Giants four or five

When these messages emanate from the pugilistic graveyard one is almost led to believe that there is something in Conan Doyle's spook communications. Also we wonder whether this is a display of humor on the part of Wolgast or indications of mental disorder.

When a man is going after a record, especially such as a home-run record, every day counts, for it takes only one four-base clout to establish a new figure. Those who are watching the efforts of Williams of the Philadelphia Nationals are sorry to learn that he may be out of the game temporarily and hope his return will be a quick one. A matter of three to six days out of the game may mean the loss of a couple of clouts.

Yesterday we heard a baseball fan make an offer of ten to one that Babe Ruth would not equal his home-run record this year and there were no takers, not even among the most rabid of the Bambino's admirers. All of which indicates that interest in Ruth's home runs are merely perfunctory and that Williams now is the lad who has stepped into the limelight.

THE FANNING HIVE

A speed ball wonder

May jump from the high school lots of Texas to the Chicago White Sox park if White Sox officials can persuade him to try his luck in the big show.

The wonder is George Cox. This eighteen-year-old boy has set a record against scholastic teams that stamps him as a promising hurler.

In seventy-five innings up to a recent date he had allowed only seven earned runs, or one to a game. He allowed thirty-seven hits, less than four to a game. He struck out ninety-eight men, or better than eleven to a contest.

Scouts who looked him over for Gleason say that he has terrific speed and a big breaking curve, well under control, to go with it. The lad may not be ripe for fast company, but if he eventually proves the find the Blankenships and Gorham Leventis are proving for the Knickerbocker fans will have another hero to rave about.

FRED JOHNSON.
Rookie pitcher tried out by the New York Giants this spring.

Wants to meet the guy who chirped, "It's a great life if you don't succumb."

From time to time the possibility of calling off the Poughkeepsie regatta and transferring it to some other location where the financial emoluments more nearly meet the outlay are offered.

Rowing is one of the white elephants of college sports. It costs a pile of money to place a crew on the water, and there are no gate receipts to meet the overhead. Poughkeepsie's excess earnings usually takes care of the crew.

Every once in a while some city or town that is located on a bit of water that is available for shell races steps forward with an offer to finance the regatta, and the temptation has been strong on occasions, for this reason, to change the geographical location of the event.

Sentiment has prevailed, however. The Poughkeepsie course how has become world famous among the carmen of the world. Were the English rowing classics put on any other bit of water than the Thames river there would probably be a flood of indignation. To be sure, there is not so much of historic sentiment at-because of the illness of Zenzo Shimizu. The doughty little player is a victim of whooping cough. His physician has ordered a complete retirement from lawn tennis for at least a month. That means that it will be approximately the first of July before Shimizu will be able to again go into action on the courts.

It is a question as to whether or not Shimizu will be able to really undertake any strenuous competition even when he has recovered from so serious a malady as whooping cough. The illness is likely to drag heavily upon his physical powers, especially as Shimizu has not been in the best of condition during the past winter.

With Ichihya Kumagae absent, and Shimizu scarcely at his best, the chances of Japan winning against a formidable Canadian team is not so brilliant a prospect as it once appeared to be. Selichiro Kashio, good as he is, is not up to the mark for international battles.

Then Masanasuke Fukuda, the Japanese champion recently arrived in this country, has not become sufficiently seasoned. Even the opinion of William T. Tilden 2d, that Fukuda is better than Kumagae was when he first appeared in American competitions does not help matters greatly. It seems that Japan is to be out of luck in the Davis cup series this year.

FAMOUS SPORT DIALOGUES:

"How'd they happen to let you go?"
"Aw, I couldn't get along with the manager."

An athlete is in his prime between the ages of twenty-three and twenty-eight.

Brooklyn, N. Y., has 330 public tennis courts, of which approximately 300 are grass.

teaching to the Poughkeepsie races as to those on the Thames, but there is a similarity in the conditions.

Those who combine sentiment as well as practical business sense are anxious to make some arrangements whereby the Poughkeepsie races may be assured for all time. It is not at all unlikely that certain sources, as, for instance, the Poughkeepsie Chamber of Commerce, and other institutions of that and neighboring places will be approached as to what methods they can offer to perpetuate the event.

Just how much return Poughkeepsie gets out of the races each year is a matter that the present writer is not conversant with. That it gets some return must be assumed, for it has been paying a great part of the expenses for a long time. If Shelby, Mont., can pay nearly half a million dollars for the staging of a single pugilistic encounter, certainly there must be some virtue in having a big annual blue ribbon event that costs only a tithe of a championship fight.

Johnson will tell the Hawaiian Islanders that's the right dope.

This young right hander has just been sent back to the San Antonio club by McGraw as one of the men the Giants can't use. And this after Johnson apparently had shown himself ready for a big league job with some club, if not with the Giants.

BRIGHT STAR OF PIRATES' MOUND

Veteran Pittsburg Twirler Keeps Right on Winning Games Despite Age

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 18.—Once in a while a baseball player, pitcher for instance, sticks around winning games day after day, year after year, while players on and owners of other clubs in the league almost wish he would die or be bumped into a hospital with permanent injuries.

Babe Adams of the Pittsburgh Pirates keeps right on winning games the older he gets. He was 41 just the other day. He is the oldest pitcher in organized baseball today, and some folks believe he is never going to quit. Pittsburghers hope he won't.

No character in baseball compares with our "Babe." He is the most cheerful, lovable chap one ever met. His private life and his career on the field are spotless. He is more of an angel than a roughneck—Pittsburgh's most beloved ball player and the kids' pitcher.

ORPHEUS FOUR IN CHURCH BENEFIT

Famous Musical Performers To Give Concert for Men's Bible Class

Glendaleans are to have the privilege tomorrow night of again greeting the Orpheus Four of the Orpheus club of Los Angeles, appearing at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse under the auspices of the Men's Bible class of the Glendale Presbyterian church.

In urging Glendaleans to attend the concert the men of the Bible class quote the following press notice given the quartet in West Virginia: "We have a music club that brings such artists as Schumann, Beethoven, but we have not had anything in the musical line that brought forth such favorable comment as the Orpheus Four."

The program tomorrow night will be for the benefit of the Men's class building fund. Tickets are on sale at Roberts & Echois drug store on East Broadway.

Included in the program are: "A Song of Winter" (Hawley); "De Sandman" (Protheroe); "Hunting Song" (Robin Hood); "The King of the Winds" (Stuart); "The Bandolero" (Stuart); "Where My Caravan Has Rested" (Lohr); "Carmena Waltz Song" (Wilson); "Friend o' Mine" (Sanderson); "The Trumpeter" (Dix); "Even Bravest Heart" (Faust); "Lassie o' Mine" (Walt); "Barcarolle" (Love Tales) (Hoffman); "The Heart Bowed Down" (Barnes); "The Heart Bowed Down" (Barnes); "A Song of the Chase" (Hawley); "On the Sea" (Buck); "Four Indian Love Lyrics" (Amy Woodford-Finden); "Little Woman o' Mine" (Bartlett); "The Soldiers' Chorus" (Faust); "The Long Day Closes" (Sullivan).

Bread Baths Beauty Secret of Bernhardt

PARIS, June 18.—Bread baths instead of mud ones—this was one of Sarah Bernhardt's means of beautifying herself. At one period of her interesting life the great actress took bread with the soft part of bread dipped into water, declaring it was an excellent thing for preserving the flesh.

In those days a large wagon of bread rolled up daily to the house in the Boulevard de Clichy and the neighbors commented upon the Pantagruelic capacity of the Divine Sarah until the baker's wife confidentially gave out the explanation of this great consumption of good French bread.

Hardest Sea Voyage Started on May 13th

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 18.—For thirteen days the four-masted schooner Stewart W. Salter, under the British flag, was beating her way down from Parrisboro, N. "We started May 13," remarked the captain to the collector of customs.

Sermon Excerpts And News Notes From Local Churches

CHURCHES of Glendale held solemn, impressive services yesterday, attended by large crowds. Pastors preached on varied topics and special music was provided by soloists and choirs. Herewith are presented brief excerpts from sermons and, too, other church news:

Dr. Fareed Speaks On Triumphs of Life

In drawing the picture on "The Triumphs of Life," Sunday morning in the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, Dr. Fareed showed how the masses of humanity look at the tragedies of life, the bleakness of the future, the lack of fulfillment of their plan, "not realizing there is a great plan for the race and that plan is evolution."

"These people get only the partial viewpoint, for without the vicissitudes of life the mountain top experiences will never be reached. When one learns to accept the tragedy of life as a lesson to be learned, then he no longer retards his own progress, but will work with the great law back of all race progress and evolution," he said.

"The deeper viewpoint, which is possessed by the few and not the many, is the God-inspired vision which shows life in cycles of changes and growth—the whole scheme being perpetual progress for all peoples and ultimate perfection for man. In the material world there seems to be disintegration, but when one has this higher vision he understands it is only the evolutionary change necessary to reduce the crumbling rock to the vegetable, then later to transfer the beginning of the new life in the vegetable to the animal kingdom and from there, in the great cycles of time, it evolves to man. There is no stagnation in the world and it is man's duty to hasten evolution by working in harmony with the law."

Consciousness of God Today's Supreme Need

"The Church of Today" was the subject of the sermon yesterday morning at the Congregational church.

"A careful study of the basic facts of modern life will make it clear to any thoughtful person that the need of the church is today greater than it has ever been before," asserted Rev. C. M. Calderwood.

"Among the good agencies of modern civilization there can be found no adequate substitute for the worship and prophecy of the church. If man is a soulless creature, then the cure of souls is an impertinence. If the chief end of man is the material satisfaction of appetites, there is no warrant for the church."

"Wealth and commerce did not save Babylon and Rome and they will not save us. Our supreme need is a consciousness of God and to learn to work in harmony with His eternal laws. The church has a message for this pleasure-seeking, sin-loving, fighting, greedy, materialistic world. Pulpit and press must unite in a greater effort to lift up the voice of the church with strength."

Compares Position of Church and Apostle

The sermon by Dr. James F. Winnard at the Tropic Presbyterian church yesterday morning was on the subject of John the Baptist.

"When we consider Abraham, Moses, Solomon, Paul and scores of others, it gives us a fuller appreciation of the greatness of this humble man whose food was locusts and wild honey and whose raiment was of camel's hair," he said.

"But the position he occupied was similar to that of the church today with one exception: His place was to go before and the church follows after to point men to the Lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world. The church will do well to look to John the Baptist for an example in faithfulness to its mission."

"John the Baptist's faithfulness cost him his life. But he lost his head in the defense of righteousness. The church of today has in another sense lost its head and its heart also and so men about us die in their sins without ever having known of the saving power of Jesus Christ."

CHURCH MUSIC

Music at the Presbyterian church yesterday morning was furnished by the church quartet which is composed of Mrs. Fannie Marple Retts of 114 West Park avenue, Miss Elizabeth Mottern of 211 North Adams street; J. M. Huddy of Pasadena and Robert F. Maile of Los Angeles. Two solos were sung by Miss Mottern, soprano. Oscar P. Walton of Los Angeles played the organ accompaniment.

M. E. SERVICES

Rev. J. C. Livingston, pastor of the Casa Verdugo Methodist church, occupied the pulpit last night at the Central Avenue Methodist church. The topic of his sermon was "The Form of the Fourth."

L. A. PASTOR HERE

Dr. G. Bromley Oxnam, pastor of the Church of All Nations in Los Angeles, yesterday morning occupied the pulpit at the Pacific Avenue Methodist church.

Paul's Example Cited By Methodist Pastor

Services of the Broadway Methodist church yesterday, were marked by much interest on the part of both pastor and congregation. A church picnic has been planned, and will be held on Tuesday, June 26th at Brookside Park, Pasadena. Several committees to arrange details were announced, and an enjoyable day is anticipated for all who may be fortunate enough to attend. The start will be from the Presbyterian church, corner Broadway and Cedar, not later than ten o'clock.

Rev. L. J. Millikan, the pastor, delivered a strong sermon on the subject "Contesting for a Prize." Text: Philippians 3:10-14. He said in part: "Anything in the world that is worthwhile is worth contending for. Paul was one of the greatest characters in all history. Possessor of an unusual intellect—a finished scholar; well versed in the laws of both church and state, and having fine blood, and fine training, he had met every requirement of the law, and if there ever was a man on earth who had cause to boast, surely Paul had that honor. But Paul said he could not win on these merits alone. He counted all these things as lost if he failed to know Christ. So we find that all attainment will not suffice. No one can know Him fully until he has known Him intimately. After Paul had come to know Him no task was so heavy, no affliction so sore, no trial so severe, but was met with his usual willing smile in the service of his great Master. Not content with knowing Jesus, Paul's aim in life was to share His sufferings, and to glorify Him in the body. Unlike the disciples, who fell asleep when commanded to watch, Paul, when warned of the sufferings he would have to endure said: 'there is no sacrifice I am unwilling to make, even to die for Him.' He was continually pressing so hard for a successful finish. He well knew the enemy always tried to knock out the strong man first, and he knew Christ, and such loyalty to Him, are unknown in the lives of all others, and in my imagination I can see that grand old scarred servant of God, in his closing race of life, and can hear his triumphant message: 'I am now ready to be offered, and my time has come. I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith: henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day; and not to me only, but unto all them also that love His appearing.'"

Samson's Shorn Locks Reveal Soul's Decay

The Old Testament story of Samson was the basis of the sermon last night at the Pacific Avenue Methodist church.

"And she made him sleep upon her knees and she called for a man and she caused him to shave off the seven locks of his head—and his strength went from him."

"In these few words," said Rev. H. C. Mullen, "are recorded the disintegration of a soul. Could the loss of Samson's seven locks of hair affect his physical or moral strength?"

"Certainly, so long as those locks were the evidence of his Nazarene vows. When he grew careless of his duties to God to the point of indifference, he thought nothing of the outward badge of fidelity to his oath. The shorn locks were but the proof of his disloyalty to his God. 'And so it ever is. When a Christian begins to walk carelessly with unguilted loins, to live and speak like the world around him, his spiritual life begins to slip away from him. The strength of the Christian life and its power to win others to that life is not in our similarity to the worldly crowd but in our unlikeness to them.'"

Evangelist Services Opened by Nazarenes

The evangelistic campaign in the tent on Harvard street, near Orange street, opened yesterday for the Church of the Nazarene.

Rev. L. E. Swaney of North Carolina, who is the evangelist, last night preached the opening sermon of the campaign for souls. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hull of Pasadena sang a duet entitled "Marvellous Grace." Mrs. Charles Newman of 237 North Cedar street was the accompanist.

Services are to be held each night commencing at 7:30 o'clock. There will be special music at each service. Rev. Henry Shide-man, pastor of this church, predicts that before many services have been held the tent will be filled with capacity audiences.

"You had better come early for a good seat," he remarked. "Come to the services tonight!"

BAPTIST MUSIC

"He Ledeth Me" was the subject of the sermon by Rev. E. E. Ford yesterday morning at the First Baptist church. The music was as follows: Prelude, "Gondoliers" (Scharwenka); anthem, "The Heavens Are Declaring" (Beethoven); offertory, "Alma" (Nevin); postlude, "Andante" (Herrling).

CHILDREN'S DAY

"Children's Day" was observed yesterday morning by the Sunday school of the First Methodist church. This is supervised by A. W. Tower of 214 East Park avenue. The subject of the morning sermon by Rev. Henry I. Rasmus was "The Call for Christian Service."

OCCULT SCIENCE

Rev. Jennie McHenry of Los Angeles delivered a lecture last night in the hall of the Citizens' Building at 130 South Brand boulevard on the subject of "Occult Science."

CORNELL PREACHES

Dr. George H. Cornell of Pasadena preached yesterday morning at St. Mark's Episcopal church. Rev. Philip K. Kemp and wife are now attending a church conference at Asilomar.

REFORMS NEEDED

"What Are Some Reforms That Call for Our Help?" was the Christian Endeavor subject early last night at the Congregational church.

For its juvenile patrons, a bank in Oak Park, Ill., has fitted up a room especially to handle their business.

Sinners Welcomed to Company of Saviour

Rev. H. O. Kringle preached yesterday morning at the Concordia Lutheran church.

"The first sentence of today's text," he said, "contains the words: 'Then drew near unto Him all the publicans and sinners to hear him.' An extraordinary message unto Him whose holiness is not only perfect but so great that even the seraphim dare not uncover their faces while singing His praise. To Him draw near publicans and sinners, all of them. Should one not expect that a simple flash of displeasure from His divinely holy eye would destroy them in an instant? Yet, they draw near unto Him, they are accepted by Him. He hears their complaint and listens to their sorrows. He eases their heavy hearts, forgives them, assures them of His love. He eats and drinks and makes fast friends with them."

"That should interest every sinner! Nevertheless, what do we hear? 'And the Pharisees and scribes murmured: 'This man receives sinners and eateth with them.' Instead of admiring Christ, they are shocked. 'Is Christ ashamed or silent upon hearing these murmurings? No. He seizes upon this occasion to set forth His love for sinners in three parables.'"

Samson's Shorn Locks Reveal Soul's Decay

The Old Testament story of Samson was the basis of the sermon last night at the Pacific Avenue Methodist church.

"And she made him sleep upon her knees and she called for a man and she caused him to shave off the seven locks of his head—and his strength went from him."

"In these few words," said Rev. H. C. Mullen, "are recorded the disintegration of a soul. Could the loss of Samson's seven locks of hair affect his physical or moral strength?"

"Certainly, so long as those locks were the evidence of his Nazarene vows. When he grew careless of his duties to God to the point of indifference, he thought nothing of the outward badge of fidelity to his oath. The shorn locks were but the proof of his disloyalty to his God. 'And so it ever is. When a Christian begins to walk carelessly with unguilted loins, to live and speak like the world around him, his spiritual life begins to slip away from him. The strength of the Christian life and its power to win others to that life is not in our similarity to the worldly crowd but in our unlikeness to them.'"

'Things That Satisfy' Is Theme of Sermon

"Things That Satisfy" was the subject of the sermon yesterday morning at the First Lutheran church.

"Young girls are reared up in absolute ignorance of the most essential accomplishments, while their minds and hearts are trained to desire things that will call forth the praise and flattery of an idle, gossiping and worldly-minded people," declared Dr. H. C. Funk.

"How many thousands cannot make a garment? But they say: 'We do not intend to become sewing girls.' As many more cannot prepare a meal and they declare that they do not expect to cook for a living."

"It is a good omen, however, to note that cooking schools are becoming fashionable. As a health restorer, I know of nothing better than a kitchen."

"But a far greater number than these combined could not even direct a soul to Christ. 'But we want our daughter to be accomplished and shine in society. Very well, let her have an acquaintance with the masters in music and art, but do not neglect the more important things of life.'"

Holy Spirit Gathers People for Christ

"The Keynote of Pentecost" was the sermon topic yesterday morning at the Presbyterian church.

"The work of the Holy Spirit today is to gather out of the nations a people for Christ, to finish the work of the Gospel, to prepare the church, His body, for the coming Lord and then this body as a bride adorned for her husband," said Rev. W. E. Edmonds. "There is a kingdom within the believer which is righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit. May the Holy Spirit Himself make all this very real to every believing heart."

"This coming of the Holy Spirit is a person coming. The third person of the Trinity removes His residence from heaven to earth just as literally as the second person, the Lord Jesus Christ, moved His residence from heaven to earth when He became incarnate and dwelt for thirty-three and a half years in Galilee and Judea. This world is now the home of the Holy Spirit, a real personal being, with affections, intelligence and will like our own."

First continuously working cream separator was invented by Gustaf de Laval of Sweden.

NEW TABERNACLE IS CONSECRATED

Dedication Services Held For C. M. A. Building on Sunday Morning

The Gospel Tabernacle upon the southeast corner of Chestnut and Louise streets yesterday was formally dedicated to the worship of God by the Glendale Christian and Missionary Alliance. Rev. C. H. Christman, pastor of this church, officiated at all services.

The sermon of dedication was preached at the morning service by Rev. George W. Davis of Los Angeles, district superintendent of the Christian and Missionary Alliance. He stated that the tabernacle should be "a house of God, a house of prayer, a house of blessing, a house of bread or spiritual food, and a house of sacrifice."

Rev. L. B. Compton, "the Mountaineer Evangelist of North Carolina," occupied the pulpit at the afternoon and evening services. The topic of his fifth sermon was "Spirit, Soul and Body." He commented at length upon this trinity within each individual.

"A person may be very religious," he asserted, "and yet know nothing of salvation. Religion is an instinct of the soul but salvation is the illumination of the spirit."

Twenty Professions. Rev. Compton took as his text for the evening sermon: "We need to give the more earnest heed to the things that we have heard lest at any time we should let them slip." Over twenty persons were inspired by his remarks to come forward "for the fullness of spirit" or "the deepening of Christian life."

The eloquence of the oratory of Rev. Compton was the subject of comment by those who were aware that he was unable to read and write at the age of twenty-one and was further handicapped by the impediment of stuttering.

Charles Donle of Providence, R. I., who is associated with Rev. L. B. Compton in his evangelistic work, spoke to about 200 children in the morning at the Sunday school hour. His topic was "The Anchors of Life." Those present were soon familiarly calling him "Uncle Charley."

Special music was provided during the day. This was in charge of Mrs. Floy E. Hornel, music director for the tabernacle. She also sang a solo in the morning, "He's Real to Me."

Miss Gladys Gleiss of Eagle Rock played "Dedication" as a violin selection at both morning and evening service.

A feature of the evening service was a solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple" by Mrs. Fannie Marple Retts.

Herbert G. Tove of Los Angeles, chorister for the Bible Institute, led the congregational singing.

Boston Zoo Displays Cow as Rare Species

BOSTON, June 18.—Franklin Park Zoo now boasts of a full-blooded Ayreshire cow.

The cow was presented to the city by the Ayreshire Breeders' association, through George F. White, the president.

Mayor Curley accepted the gift on the lawn of the City Hall and announced that it would be placed in the Franklin Park Zoo in compliance with the request of the donors, so that the children of Boston might see what a cow is like.

A recent test of the city schools disclosed that an average of only four out of ten children had ever seen a cow.

Most common forms in which carbonate of lime occurs in nature is in limestone and marl.

Hunting Dog Has to Hunt, Court Says

ST. LOUIS, June 18.—Hunting dogs, guaranteed to hunt, must "do their stuff," Judge Dyer, in federal court here, decided.

J. S. Heady complained to the court that he paid $65 to D. J. Wright for a guaranteed hunting hound, which declined to hunt. Heady brought the carcass of the dog back to Wright and demanded his money back as promised to dissatisfied buyers.

Counsel for Wright claimed that the dog died of mistreatment, but the judge fined the defendant $50 for using the mails to defraud in advertising and Heady was refunded the purchase price.

THE REVOLUTION AS VIEWED BY THE ALLIES

FREEDOM FOR BERGDOLL

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., June 18.—Within forty-eight hours the gates of the United States disciplinary barracks here will be thrown open to Erwin Bergdoll, Philadelphia draft dodger, and brother of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll. He will have completed a sentence to federal prison for evading military duty during the war.

British Prices Too High, Says Yankee

LONDON, June 18.—"Britain will have to kick the stilts from under her prices before she can get back to normal."

This was the advice handed out by Frank Dickson, vice-president of the Packard Motor Company.

"I have been astounded by the prices that are asked for everything and particularly for clothes, food and necessities generally," Dickson said. "They are much higher than in the United States, although wages in England are apparently lower."

Dickson admitted that he felt a sense of depression in London because of the distress and conditions of unemployment which are seen on all hands.

"Although I believe that France made a mistake in occupying the Ruhr without Great Britain being in the agreement it was significant that I observed no signs of unemployment in Germany."

Dickson has made a study of European aeroplane manufactures since he has been in Europe and declares that Great Britain is far in advance of any other nation in this industry.

LEADS IN SARDINES

Maine was formerly the acknowledged center of the sardine business in this country, but California now leads the nation in value of annual sardine output.

MILLION DOLLAR LIBRARY PLAN

U. S. C. to Build Home for Priceless Volumes Short Of Space

The University of Southern California is to have a new, thoroughly modern, $1,000,000 library as one of the first of its programed improvements.

The library is to be erected from funds raised through the $10,000,000 development campaign recently launched. Its erection is contingent on the success of the campaign, but in the belief that the drive will be successful plans for the structure have been made already.

The new building will be of similar architecture to Bovard Auditorium, according to present plans, and will replace the cramped quarters now occupied by the library in the Liberal Arts building.

Priceless Volumes. Hundreds of priceless volumes, many of them unreplaceable, now housed in that non-fireproof structure, will be moved to new quarters.

One of the first expenditures according to President Rufus B. Von KleinSmid, will be for the erection of the library. Plans have already been drawn by John and Donald Parkinson, architects, and the librarian, Blanche Brown, is now working over floor plans with a view toward making as compact as possible the facilities of the new building.

A short summary of present library conditions has been prepared by Miss Brown, which shows the handicap under which students are working today.

There are only 246 chairs in the entire library, according to Miss Brown. The campus has an enrollment of 6,500 students.

Space is so much at a premium that a hallway and an extra storeroom have been pressed into service to house the stacks. There are today more than 35,000 volumes in the building.

No Room For Books. Funds are available, through donation, for the purchase of new books, but so crowded is the available space that the new books cannot be purchased, except in very small quantities.

The average circulation of the library is between 2,000 and 3,000 a week in the two-week books, and between 5,000 and 7,000 a week in reference books, which may be drawn for overnight use only.

The library, which is situated in the College of Liberal Arts building, does not house the libraries of philosophy, law or music. If any of these were included there would not be room enough for the students, according to Miss Brown.

The facade of the projected new building will be of the same architecture as Bovard Auditorium. The plan will permit two stories and a basement, and the arrangement will be very largely the work of Miss Brown, and along the lines of the most modern thought in library planning.

President Von KleinSmid is enthusiastic over the library plans and is heartily in favor of pushing them to completion with all dispatch.

Tentative plans for the new library provide a two-story structure, nearly square, built around a rotunda, or central tower. Stairs from the main entrance will lead to the main floor, where the rotunda will be utilized as a cataloging room.

To the right will be the main desk for borrowers, and behind that the stacks. The stacks will be three stories high and will house 250,000 books.

On the left of the main entrance will be a reading room.

Hungarian Duellist Vanquishes 100 Foes

BUDAPEST, June 18.—Dueling is very much the "mode" in Hungary at the present time and Edward Laudauer, an employee of the Budapest Bank, is the man of the hour. He has fought and won one hundred duels in the last three years.

Laudauer's last victim was Lieutenant R. Vurchner. Two hundred spectators witnessed a recent sword duel staged with all the precision of a big sporting event.

Honolulu Motor Cars To Reach 10,000

HONOLULU, June 18.—There will be approximately 10,000 privately owned motor cars and trucks in Honolulu on July 1, according to estimates made recently by D. L. Conkling, city and county treasurer, based on the issuance of automobile licenses during the first three months of the year. This represents an increase of approximately 2,000 over the figures for last year.

Jap Ex-Service Men Want Bonus Equalized

TOKIO, June 18.—Former soldiers and sailors of Japan, in a meeting recently, attacked the policy of the Japanese government in giving liberal bonuses to certain retired officers of both services and ignoring a great number of former service men. A resolution was filed with Premier Kato and the Minister of War, General Yamanashi.

CANNED GOODS RECORD

California topped all production records for canned goods, in 1922, when she packed 15,000,000 cases, of an average of two dozen, 2½ pound cans to the case.

Circus of ancient Rome was in a building nearly oblong in shape, with seats on the side, many being of marble.

with an estimated seating capacity of from 400 to 500 persons. The periodical room will be on the same floor, over the stairway, and will seat about 200. A third reading room, for reserved books, will seat an additional 350 students. The total seating capacity will be approximately 1,200.

The basement will be given over to the library work rooms and offices, while a mezzanine floor will be devoted to individual study and seminar rooms for research.

Separate Rooms. An art feature will be provided on the second floor in the shape of several rooms furnished as an oriental room, a Spanish room and a museum.

A feature of the plans includes a "browsing room" in which comfortable chairs and open shelves will invite students to read good literature.

"The heart as well as the head of any institution of learning is its library," President Von KleinSmid recently told the board of trustees of the institution. "All students of all departments gather here to study."

No university can make progress without a steady increase in library facilities, while graduate work becomes impossible without this. Demands for opportunities for graduate work have been growing more insistent, and our library is now housed in a non-fireproof building, in crowded quarters, hardly accessible. There is no room for expansion. One million dollars should be dedicated at once to the erection of a library building and adequate, up-to-date equipment."

EGG EXPORTS TO SET NEW RECORD

Shipments of Yankee Hen's Products Reach Value Of $12,000,000

The cackle of the American hen reverberates throughout the entire world and with constantly increasing intensity. The total number of eggs sent out of continental United States in the fiscal year which ends with June, 1923, will approximate a half billion with a value of approximately $12,000,000, and will show a larger total than in any preceding year with the possible exception of one of the war years, when demands from Europe were exceptionally heavy and especially for the class of foods convenient for use in camps and on the battlefields. The present high record of exports, however, is in response to normal calls from all parts of the world.

Figures compiled for the Trade Record of the National City Bank of New York indicate that the growth in the exportation of this factor of our food supply has been exceptionally rapid in recent years. In the year preceding the war the total exports of eggs was 17,500,000 dozen with a value of $3,308,000, while that of the fiscal year 1923 will be approximately 39,000,000 dozen, and if we include those sent to our own colonies but not included as "exports" the number will exceed 40,000,000 dozen, or 480,000,000 eggs passing out of continental United States in the natural form. Add to this $100,000 worth going under the classification of "eggs and yolks frozen, dried or canned," and it is quite apparent that the total distribution from our ports in the year which ends with June, 1923, will be fully a half billion in number with a value of fully $12,000,000. The value of the eggs sent out of the United States in the last decade, adds the Trade Record, is nearly $100,000,000 as against about $20,000,000 in the decade preceding the war.

All Over World

Where do they go? To every continent and all of the islands and colonies of the world. While the figures of distribution by countries are not yet available for the current fiscal year, those for 1922, the former high record year, show eggs sent in the natural form to twenty-six countries, while those in the "dried, frozen or canned" state went in 1922 to no less than forty-five countries, colonies and islands, representing all of the grand divisions of the world. England, which has for many years been a large importer of this class of foodstuffs, is the largest of the European purchasers, and the number sent to that country in the nine months ending with March, 1923, is 4,697,000 dozen, valued at $7,528,000, or an average export price to Great Britain of 32.5 cents per dozen, while the average export price of those going to the entire world in the same period was 27.6 cents a dozen. Canada, Cuba and Mexico are even larger importers of eggs from the United States, than is Great Britain, the total number sent from the United States to Mexico in the nine months ending with March, 1923, having been 5,832,000 dozen; to Canada, 8,372,000, and to Cuba, 8,487,000, as against 4,670,000 dozen sent to the United Kingdom in the same period.

It is in the class being exported in the "dried, frozen and canned" state that the widest distribution and the most rapid growth occurs. They went in 1922 to sixteen European countries, all the colonies and islands of the Caribbean area, nine South American countries, a dozen countries, colonies and islands in Asia and Oceania, and a limited number in Africa.

Build Up Markets

This new development in the export of what was a few years ago considered a "negligible factor" in our export trade illustrates, says the Trade Record, the constant increase in the variety and value of food materials which the United States is placing upon the world markets, and the aid which these minor industries of the country are rendering in supplying the "where-withal" required for the purchase of the tropical foods and manufacturing materials which we must always bring from other parts of the world.

MARKETS

NEW YORK, June 18.—Selling which started early in the stock market early today gained momentum as the session progressed and at the close the undertone was decidedly weak.

National Cloak & Suit broke ten points on a few transactions to 40. A large number of stocks fell from 3 to 6 points to new lows for the year. Studebaker at 104½; Kelly-Springfield at 36 and Mack Truck at 73¼, were over one point lower. American Can fell nearly six points to 90½. Baldwin yielded about 4 points to 124 and Steel Common nearly 2 points to 32½. The rails were also lower, but the decline in this group was not as large as in the industrials.

Government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds irregular. Stocks today, 1,002,700 shares; bonds $10,681,000.

In Grain Markets

CHICAGO, June 18.—Grain tumbled heavily on the market here today. July wheat was very weak at three loss, losing more than 3c from Saturday's last price. Lessened demand in foreign markets was held responsible, but bearish news was lacking.

Wheat closed 1¼ to 3¼ off. Corn finished ¼ to ½c off. Oats ½ to 1½c lower. Provisions were also lower, but price changes small.

Local Osteopaths at Annual Convention

LONG BEACH, June 18.—Four Glendale osteopaths, Dr. Edward T. Abbott, Dr. Caroline Paine, Dr. Pearl S. Rittenhouse and Dr. T. C. Young, attended the twenty-second annual convention of the California Osteopathic Association which closed its sessions here this afternoon.

One of the many features of the convention was the appearance of Doctors Young and Abbott, who came from Glendale via the air route. Dr. Young was on the program Thursday afternoon and left Glendale, with Dr. Abbott, just half an hour before he was on the convention platform delivering an address on "Differential Diagnosis of Acute Abdomen and Dangers in Use of Morphine." Dr. Abbott gave a report on the activities of the Los Angeles Surgical Society, of which he is a member.

More than 200 osteopaths from all parts of the state attended the convention held at Hotel Virginia.

Pickpocket, 11, Steals From Fellows in Cells

BIDDEFORD, Maine, June 15.—Maine's youngest pickpocket, Alphonse Roy, 11 years old, steals even from the jail house.

The boy, recently arrested, confessed that he picked a woman's pocket of $50. He has returned $41.50, having spent the rest. Roy has been arrested several times for stealing merchandise from local stores.

After he had been confined in jail a few days prisoners began to report that articles were being stolen from their cells and the thefts were traced to the youthful prisoner.

Miss Jeanette M'Lennan And Joseph Wilson Wed Saturday At 'Shadow Oak'

THERE were over sixty guests bidden to the marriage. Saturday, June 16, 1923, of Miss Jeanette M'Lennan and Joseph Wilson, the ceremony taking place at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at "Shadow Oak," the delightful home of the T. W. Prestons at 330 North Jackson street. Miss M'Lennan, daughter of Mrs. Preston, has lived in Glendale for over ten years, and so has Mr. Wilson and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Wilson, of 220 West Chestnut street, so the marriage of the young people is of wide interest.

It was a beautifully informal wedding, the Preston home being simply decorated with bouquets of bright flowers, and Miss M'Lennan being gowned in a charming afternoon frock, and unattended. Across the mantelpiece at the north end of the living room ivy and pale blue plumbago had been intertwined, while before the fireplace beneath, were three beautiful baskets of blue larkspur, pink gladioli and roses and stork. It was here that the bridal party stood.

On the table in the attractive dining room was a bowl of coral shaded gladioli and delphinium. Following the ceremony this bouquet was replaced by the bride's cake.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Perry Rodgers sang sweetly, "All for You," and Mrs. Glenn Straight of Eagle Rock played the Lohengrin Wedding March.

Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian church was the officiant.

Miss M'Lennan was most becomingly gowned in orchid Canton crepe, made with long line, panel effect and richly trimmed with steel beads. She wore a black summer hat and carried orchids and lilies of the valley.

After an informal reception hour, during which Mrs. Wilson cut her bridal cake, the young couple left for a short trip. For traveling Mrs. Wilson wore a black and white sport outfit.

Have Many Friends

Both Mr. and Mrs. Wilson have a wide circle of friends in Glendale and Los Angeles. They are both graduates of the Glendale Union High school. Following her graduation Mrs. Wilson attended the Chicago School of Physical Education and then taught in St. Catherine's private school in Los Angeles. Mr. Wilson is associated with the Union Oil company's Los Angeles office.

Evidence of the affection and good wishes of their many friends was seen in the wonderful display of wedding gifts, including solid silver, rich glassware, fine linens, attractive art pieces and countless other things for the new home.

Particularly treasured by Mrs. Wilson are six solid silver spoons, made in Ireland 100 years ago and owned by members of the McKinley family, from which Mr. Wilson descended.

Invited Guests
Guests bidden for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Clendenin, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Templeton, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. McIntire, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Lilly, Mr. and Mrs. Smith McMullin, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sullivan, Mrs. Roy V. Hogue, Mrs. A. Allen, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Arnold, Mrs. David Brant, Mrs. H. E. SENIORS ATTEND UNION SERVICES

Baccalaureate Sermon to 1923 Class Delivered
By Dr. Rasmus

Glendale Union High School seniors of the class of 1923 and a large congregation last night attended union services at the First Methodist church. Dr. Henry L. Rasmus, pastor of this church, delivered the baccalaureate sermon which was entitled "The Call of a Matchless Leadership."

The services were participated in by the pastors of several local churches. Prayer was offered by Rev. E. E. Ford, pastor of the First Baptist church. The Scripture reading was interpreted by Rev. C. C. Cole, pastor of the Central Christian church. Announcements were made by Rev. Louis Tinning, assistant pastor of the Presbyterian church. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. C. M. Calderwood, pastor of the Congregational church.

Special Music
Special music for the occasion included the playing of "The Lost Chord" by Ivan Dow, member of the graduating class, as a cornet solo at the commencement of the service. Glenn Dolberg, who photographed the class, sang as a solo "From the Depths."

Organ numbers played by Mrs. H. W. Randall included the "Festival Processional" by Johnson, and "The Song of the Basket Weaver" by Russell and "Postlude in C" by Wood.

Two quartets sang. One was composed of Dr. P. O. Lucas, Dr. C. R. Lusby, Paul Butterfield and Frank Butterfield. The other was composed of Miss Dorothy Pearl, Miss Isabelle Isig, Paul Butterfield and Dr. P. O. Lucas. The supremacy of Jesus as a leader of men formed the foundation for the sermon.

Although he admitted that Christ never drew a sword or led legions to victory as did Alexander, Caesar or Napoleon, Dr. Rasmus declared that the time was fast approaching when the world would cease to applaud militarism.

"The first call," he stated, "is to self-mastery in the struggle of life. You will find that life is a struggle. Life is a battle. Man is born on a battle-field."

Dr. Rasmus' message to the Chicago authorities follows:

"Did not know I was sought in Leighton, Mont., case until informed by local sheriff. I witnessed affair at Evanston pier in 1921. Can identify at least four involved. Have good information. Will assist all I can. If my presence is desired, wire transportation and expense funds at once."

Discards Men Forever, She Says, and Will Seek Fame in Films

By WILLIAM G. CAYCE
For International News Service
LOS ANGELES, June 18.—Through with men and their love in home at "The Heights" above Oakland, Juanita Miller has come to Los Angeles to "get in the movies." She not only wants to become an actress herself, but is anxious to have some of the works of her father, the late Juanita Miller, family California "poet of the Sierras," resurrected, modernized and produced.

"I'll never marry again because my mind won't let me love," she declared in an interview here today. "However, my body may love. That means that though some man might love me, I couldn't return his affections."

All of this, she frankly admits as her eyes dance with enthusiasm, is because she is passing through a second reincarnation. But Juanita is not dead, nor has she ever died, but she has a new definition for reincarnation.

Life Made of Colors
"It's all fate," declared the famous poet's daughter, who still retains the vigor of a school girl, "and I don't mind it. Rather like it, in fact. It is an experience like my two marriages to Juan Revis, my 'golden man,' and Juan Miller, my 'lily love,' and all the other men folk who have played a part in the 'cycle of colors' of my first physical reincarnation."

She explained in somewhat mixed metaphors for half an hour that her life had been made up of colors; that the two sides of her nature, pagan, from her father, and Christian, from her mother, have been subservient to these colors. Each of these colors, she said, was symbolic of some emotion—some good and others gloomy.

Cupid on Rocks
She also retold her marital experiences with Juan Revis, whom she married when in the "gold cycle," because he had given her a gold ring. Her second wedding adventure was with Juan Miller, whom she married in the "cold gray dawn" at "The Heights" over a year ago. But that love, like the one with Revis, was wrecked a few months after the wedding because Juan had debts which she had to assume.

"But I'm starting all over again," she said, "and there will be no more men of love in my life. Should Juanita not succeed in signing a film contract she said she would return to 'The Heights' and content herself with the care-free outdoor life."

COLLEGE WOMEN LUNCHEON GUESTS

Local Alumnae Meet on Saturday; Visitors From Outside Districts

That there was a real place in Glendale club life for an organization of college and university women, is emphatically emphasized each time the Glendale College Women's club meets. This fact was reflected in a statement made at the club luncheon and meeting Saturday, at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, by Mrs. A. L. Ferguson, president, to the effect that with a membership of ninety members there was an average attendance of sixty-five at the club meetings.

There is a most delightful local fellowship existing among local alumnae, and on Saturday, in anticipation of suspending activities for the summer vacation time, the club members enjoyed entertaining guests. Over seventy-two places were marked at the luncheon table.

Honored guests were Mrs. C. H. Turner, president of the Los Angeles University Women's club; Mrs. Mott, chairman of the vocational unit of the Los Angeles club; Miss Gray, president of the Pasadena College Women's club; and Miss Martin, chairman of membership of the Pasadena club.

The luncheon was served in the banquet room of the clubhouse, and Mrs. A. H. Montgomery and her Non-Section women of the Tuesday Afternoon club are deserving of praise for the artistic table effects and splendid menu.

Attractive Tables
They had arranged three long tables, joined by shorter ones, decorated with bouquets of golden lilies and flat arrangements of nasturtium. The yellow and orange-shaded flowers seemed to blend perfectly with the finishing of the banquet hall, and the visitors complimented the college women on having such a delightful place to meet.

During the final course of the luncheon Mrs. Ferguson asked each college or university woman present to stand and give her name and the name of her alma mater. This provided much interest because of the wide range of institutions represented, and afforded the women opportunity to know each other.

The club is fortunate in having for president during the coming year, Mrs. Ferguson, who was recently unanimously re-elected, and on Saturday she was the recipient of a beautifully made gavel, the work of the wood-work classes at the Glendale High school. The gavel was presented by Mrs. Charles Barker, who made a most impressive presentation talk.

Honor Mrs. Tower
During a short business hour it was announced that out of the membership of ninety there are forty members of the club eligible for membership in the Association of American University Women, and action was taken providing that eligible shall pay individual dues if they desire to become members.

In memory of Mrs. A. W. Tower, charter member and program chairman of the club, whose death occurred two weeks ago today, the company stood in silence. Delightful musical entertainment was given by Mrs. Enona Hopkins, harpist, and Mrs. Helen Graham Cole, soprano. Both are talented and pleasing artists and the college women were fortunate in having them as guests.

Inspiring Talk
Representing a sister club, Miss Gray, president of the Pasadena College Women's club, gave an inspiring outline of her club's activities. It is an organization two years old and has a record of raising $7,400 towards $10,000 during its first year. Miss Gray stated that at present there are 206 members, who participate in the educational and social activities. Of special interest was the account of the sectional work along the lines of psychology, art and interior decoration, current history, literature and writing.

Mrs. Turner of the Los Angeles University Women's Club told of that vast organization, as did Mrs. Mott, who spoke most interestingly in connection with the vocational alliance maintained with the Los Angeles Business Women's Club.

Mrs. Ferguson and her board members of the Glendale club are planning for a wider scope of activities in the fall and winter and committees have been appointed for planning for the coming year during the summer time.

Rattler in Pipeline Surprises Repairman

PORTERVILLE, Cal., June 18.—A seven-foot rattlesnake, which had crawled or been sucked into a pipeline, served to put out of commission the pumping plant on the Dr. D. A. Beattie orange grove, near this city, and to give R. M. Beattie the scare of his life when after working several hours to adjust the plant, he thrust his arm into the feedpipe and came in contact with the snake. The snake will disturb the operations of the plant no more.

Vacations Are Now In Order For Glendale Folks; Leave All Worries Here, Warning

By GIL A. COWAN

VACATION season is fairly upon us, folks. In another week or two, with the schools closed, we will say "it's here." For there will be about 10,000 youngsters turned loose in town and everybody will be going or coming from the seashore or the mountains. Certainly, the vacation idea is a profitable one for the railroads and the resorts; but it sure "do" make a muss of orderly business routine. In growing Glendale this is particularly true.

If you start talking with a person the first thing you know he is trying to find out how the trout are running at some unheard of creek; whether it is best to go some place by rail or auto; how much it costs to take an ocean trip, and so on.

And, being somewhat interested yourself in vacation plans, it is nothing out of the way to talk away two or three hours of a busy day with nothing to show for it but the vacation fever. All of which is dangerous, too.

About Your Plans
In the first place, most people forget that a vacation is intended for a rest. You can enjoy a vacation right here in Glendale as well as elsewhere, but a change of climate appeals to most of us. Then you want to travel and the farther you go the better the plan appears—on paper.

Be it known that the person who drives a motorcar more than 100 miles a day on a vacation trip, sets up camp, changes tires, and otherwise busies himself with the general management of a trip, comes home the worse for the wear.

And the good little woman who sees to it that two or three children are washed and fed and put to bed, jolts around with the baggage in the back seat of the family flivver, and tries to keep good natured, will be in need of a week's rest when she returns to Glendale.

From an economical standpoint a cabin in the mountains, a cottage at the beach or an ocean trip provides the most ideal vacation. The next best bet is a train trip to visit relatives who are willing to let you "vacation" with them. But to get out and go some place and rush right back—that isn't a vacation at all.

Leave Worries at Home
When you pack up your baggage, leave your worries at home. Never take along work to be done, for it is distracting. Never have a particular duty to perform, either. And so arrange your affairs that you are not called home in the midst of an enjoyable outing. It spoils the whole effect. For one who has "automobiled" over a good bit of the state, permit me to offer a few stereotyped suggestions:

Carry a sufficiency of travelers' checks, but no more currency than is necessary. Be ready to meet an emergency for accidents do happen. Plan to stop and eat at the best places. They cost little more, but give double the satisfaction. Do not camp out unless you have the inclination and know how to do so gracefully. Hotels are much more convenient. If you take the children with you be wary of strangers until you learn they are not spreading such enjoyable maladies as whooping cough, etc.

Pets Become Pests
Do not take dogs or animals along if it can be avoided. They are "damned" nuisances as well as great pests. If camping, learn forest regulations. Also be careful to know you are not trespassing on others' property.

When traveling by train be sure of reservations days in advance. Also, ask a few questions about rates, stopovers, etc., and gain many advantages. Never take one person's word for anything. Check up on information regarding train time, the best road, where to stop, etc. Others' ignorance may be your misfortune.

How to Get Along
Be slow in striking up acquaintances, yet be cordial with those whom you feel you can trust. They probably will go out of their way to make things pleasant for you if you show the slightest appreciation.

Under no circumstances act peevishly. Trying to save money and having a good time fail to work well together. "Cheap" people earn disdain the same as those who would make a false impression. It isn't according to Hoyle. And be sure to boost your home town. Tell 'em about Glendale and they will respect you for it.

TODAY—The "Rat League of Tokio"; Juvenile Crime in Japan.

For International News Service

TOKIO, June 18.—Young men who wear bronze rings on their right fingers and called themselves members of the "Rat League of Tokio," their object in organization being the robbery of unsuspecting young people recently brought the Tokio police to the realization that not only in Paris, London and New York are there criminals of a colorful nature. The arrest of fourteen members of the Metropolitan Police brought out a story similar to the one which appeared in the many melodramatic magazines which have been the chief literature of the members of the band.

Meeting in a back room of a pool hall in Kanda, the Tokio district where the students are wont to congregate, the members of the "Rat League" had a president and a common treasury into which their ill-gotten gains were placed and later divided equally. Not only did the members of the league rob the sons and daughters of the rich folks of Tokio as these children went to and from their aristocratic schools, but some of the older members of the gang resorted to blackmail to swell their daily income. From ¥1 (50c) to ¥20 ($20) was the price charged by the youthful blackmailers who frequently frightened some young boy or girl into giving them "hush money," the promise being that stories of some alleged juvenile misdeed would be kept from the authorities if the "Rat League" was properly paid. Some days the income of the "League" came chiefly from petty thefts from young people who were held up late in the afternoon or in the early evening. The police state that the treasury of the "Rat League" contained approximately ¥2,000 ($1,300) when the fourteen members were arrested by the Tokio police.

The police and welfare workers of Tokio have long known that such young men, ranging in age from 16 years to 25, are a real problem in Tokio. The man who assassinated Premier Hara at Tokio Central Railway station in November, 1921, was under 25, and his crime was the result of brooding over fancied wrongs done the people by the administration of the men whom he determined to kill. He had been in the habit of spending many hours talking with young men of similar natures to his own and he felt that only through such methods as assassination and drastic acts could the opinions of the young men of Tokio be heard.

Not only among these young men of the uneducated class is this tendency noticeable in Tokio. The dodging of military service by the sons of prominent families is another matter that is causing some concern to the police. Some of these young men even go so far as to maintain themselves so that they will be reported as physically unfit by the board which examines them for military service.

Mr. Alexander Hume Ford, organizer of the Pan-Pacific Union in Japan and other countries, seeing the problem of the young men of Tokio, has discussed it in many quarters of the city, and has sought to interest these young people in the problems of international nature that should interest to take their minds from the fancied wrongs which frequently cause them to commit crimes. The elimination of "improper thoughts," which frequently mean brooding over militarism, and resentment against so-called "autocratic forms" of government is one of the objects of Mr. Ford in his talks with the young men of the capital city of Japan.

According to police records there may be found in the two big parks of Tokio, Hibiya and Shiba, almost any night dozens of young men who think and talk things which are apt to result in harm to the government or to some public man if they are allowed to develop.

BILLY WHISKER

Next morning after the ape frightened the cook, they sighted Naos, one of the small islands near the mouth of the Panama canal, and sailed in close to the breakwater that is built from this island to the mainland to help protect the entrance to the canal. There is also a breakwater at Colon, on the Atlantic side of the canal, for the same purpose.

As they were sailing fast, they were soon anchored in the shallow bay of Panama City.

"It looks like an old Spanish city with its stuccoed houses, doesn't it?" remarked Stubby.

"I wonder how large a city it is," said Button.

"In 1908 it had only about thirty-five thousand inhabitants, but I bet when the canal is opened it will grow more in a year than it has in all the rest of its existence," replied Billy.

"When we anchor," he continued, "we must watch for a chance to get ashore. But how we are to do it, I don't know. It looks to me now as if the captain intended to unload onto a smaller boat and not go up to the dock. If he does, we will have to swim ashore, or else stay on board and be taken back to San Francisco."

"Not on your life will I be carried back, neither will I swim!" declared Button. "I will find some way to get there."

"Do you think," said Stubby, "I am coming all this way to see this wonderful canal and then be carried back without touching foot on shore? No, sir! Not on your life, even if I have to swim for it and run the chances of being eaten up alive by sharks!"

But all their fears were in vain, for when the tide came in the captain sailed up to the dock. When it was out, the water was too shallow for him to get in to the dock at which he was to unload. And once alongside the dock, it was a very easy thing for Billy and the Chums to steal ashore and disappear without having anyone stop them.

They hurried off the wharf to look for a place to hide until the Sea Gull had unloaded her cargo, reloaded and sailed away, for they were afraid they would be caught and carried back to San Francisco.

"We must keep close together, fellows, so as to protect each other, for I don't like the looks of some of these people," advised Billy. "They look too much like Spaniards, and most foreign people are cruel to animals. Let us follow the seashore, for then we will surely come out where there are residences. It is much safer to stay in the aristocratic residential district than down near the wharves and stores. Besides, it will be easier to get things to eat, for if the worst comes to the worst, we can steal into their gardens and eat their vegetables."

(Tomorrow you'll hear how the Chums forage for their dinner.)

REPAIRS BY WELDING PROCESS

It is the Silent Accountant of Service Rendered
When motor parts break or even when they wear out the acetylene welder should not be ignored as a possible help in time of trouble. The capabilities of his art are very remarkable and not fully realized by motorists who have not given the subject attention, but of course it has very definite limitations. If a part fails, which is expensive to replace or which can only be obtained after a long delay, its repair by welding is always worthy of consideration, and any welder who has his business future in mind will honestly tell the motorist who shows him a broken part whether its repair by his methods will prove successful and a paying operation. Fixed, rather than moving, parts are, in general, the most successfully welded. In many instances parts which have worn so as to be useless small in certain dimensions can be built up by the autogenous process, and then machined down to their original dimensions—costly replacements thus being avoided. In the production and application of the localized heat required in the straightening of motor car parts, the oxyacetylene torch is most effective, but it should always be remembered that the heat-treated metal of axles and other vital structural parts is affected as to its strength and rigidity by heating. Before discarding an expensive broken part, let the welder have a look at it.

HYDROMETER READINGS

G. J. S. asks: How often is it advisable to take hydrometer readings of the liquid in the battery?
Answer: It is generally recommended that readings be taken from each cell each time the battery is filled with distilled water, or inspected to see whether it needs water. It is generally advised that this be done once each week in hot weather when a lot of driving is being done, and about once each three weeks in winter. In practice it is hardly necessary to take readings so frequently as this, although it is a good thing, undoubtedly. If there is anything seriously wrong with the battery the dimming of the lights during the starting operation, or some other failure of performance, usually warns the owner of the fact. If one has the time, it is undoubtedly well to test the battery often.

T. R. writes: My car was running all right until shortly ago I laid it out to have a few repairs made. Since then, whenever I give the engine a little gas, the whole car shakes, but on a level road, with the gas nearly shut off, it runs all right. How can you explain this?
Answer: From your brief description of your trouble, we hardly feel that we can explain its cause. If the engine does not fire regularly, it will, of course, run very jerkily. If the engine surges, and ports are loose on the frame, or if anything about the power plant is badly out of balance, severe vibration is almost sure to occur.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

BY HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE JULY BUG

Once upon a time, Uncle Wiggily hopped out of bed in his hollow stump bungalow and, before eating any breakfast, he sang this little song:

"It was in the merry month of June
When a little birdie sang this jolly tune:
Tra-la! Tra-la! Tra-lee!
Oh, did he diddle dee!
I'll be hungry if I don't eat very soon!"

"Are you singing about yourself?" called up Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy from down in the kitchen. "Singing about myself? What do you mean?" asked Uncle Wiggily, politely twinkling his pink nose.

"I mean that about being hungry if you don't eat very soon?" went on the muskrat lady housekeeper. "Are you hungry?"

"Indeed I am—very!" answered the bunny gentleman.

"Well, then, come on down and eat!" invited Nurse Jane. "I have some carrot pancakes with cabbage maple sugar on them."

So Uncle Wiggily slid down the banister rail the more quickly to get into the kitchen, and, after eating a very good breakfast, he started out to look for an adventure. Over the fields and through the woods he hopped the bunny rabbit, and soon he reached the forest.

Down on a soft, green, mossy log sat Mr. Longears, but of a sudden he heard a snapping, banking, crackling noise near him, like firecrackers going off at a picnic, and a voice cried:

"Oh, you sat right down on me! Oh, my goodness! You plumped yourself right down on my back! Oh, how crushed I feel! Bing! Bang! Bung!"

"Bless my pocket handkerchief!" gasped Uncle Wiggily. "What in the world have I done?" He hopped up quickly from the log and right in the place where he had been sitting he saw a crawling insect.

"Who are you?" asked the rabbit. "I am the July Bug," was the answer. "I know I am a little ahead of time, but is that any excuse for you sitting on me? Oh, bang! Crack! Bung!" And the bug made noises like a torpedo shooting off.

"Ah, so you are a July Bug," spoke Uncle Wiggily, gently. "Yes, you are a bit early, for this is only June, as I was singing about before breakfast."

Once more the bunny gentleman sang the little song.

"Oh, it's all very well for you to be jolly and gay!" complained the July Bug, sort of discontented-like and pouting, "but what about me? What am I to do?"

"Well, I'm sure I don't know," answered Uncle Wiggily. "But what seems to be the trouble?"

"Oh, so much trouble," sighed the July Bug. "I'm a month ahead of time. I shouldn't have come until July, for this is only June. The June Bugs are jealous of me and the lightning bugs don't speak to me. Oh, Bing! Bang! Bung! I'm so miserable!" And the July Bug cried.

"Why do you make those funny noises, like a gun?" asked Uncle Wiggily, curious-like.

The guest, after lighting his cigar, threw the burned match to the ground, says the Chicago Tribune.

"Oh, I wouldn't do that, George," said the host.

"Why not?"

"It spoils the appearance of everything," was the answer. "It's just those little things that make a place look bad."

The guest smoked his cigar in silence for a few minutes; then, without a word, got up, walked down the road, and disappeared. He returned in a short time.

His host asked, "Where've you been, George?"

"Oh, I just went down to spit in the river," said George.

"How come you ain't wukkin' today? Been flahed?"

"N-n-naw. De man I wukked foh kinda resigned from me."

"Watcha mean—resigned from yuh?"

"Resigned from bein' mah boss."

"Th-huh."

"How come yuh ain't wukkin' yoh own se? Has yuh been flahed?"

"N-n-naw. De comp'ny I wukked foh done gwine out o' business."

"Which business is it gwine out of?"

"De business of lettin' me wuk foh it lak it was."

SPEAKING OF FAME

Fame is a queer thing. There is a certain group of people whose names are not likely to be forgotten for a century or so. And perhaps not so long as the English language lasts. And yet many of us who often speak those names never heard of the people to whom they belonged and do not even know we are speaking them.

I refer to the people whose names, for one reason or another, have become crystallized in the English language. When you ask the clerk for some mercerized material for a lining do you know that you are perpetuating the name of John Mercer, an English calico printer, who introduced the process of mercerizing?

When you speak of pasteurizing the baby's milk you are keeping alive the name of Pasteur, the great French scientist. His Amusement Enshrines Him The term silhouette comes from the name of a French minister of finance who lived in 1759 and whose diversion it was to make such portraits. How surprised he would probably have been if he could have known that his work as minister of finance, which doubtless seemed all-important and vital to him, would soon be completely forgotten, while his amusement would embalm his fame in the safe tomb of language.

To speak of a macadamized road is unconsciously to say the name of John MacAdam, a Scotch engineer. To bowdlerize means to expurgate. Why? Because Dr. Thomas Bowdler, an English physician, published an edition of Shakespeare in 1818, so thoroughly expurgated that the words Bowdler and expurgate became synonymous. (It looks as if America in her present spasm of censoring might contribute some more similar words to the language.)

Probably you never heard of Daguerre, but if you have any old daguerotypes in the family you have doubtless spoken his name many times.

Some Recent Canonizations We recognize more quickly the derivation from personalities of such words as bessemer (from Sir Henry Bessemer), cravenette

(from Craven, the inventor of the processes; bertillon measurements (Alphonse Bertillon), marconigram (enshrined in his language in his lifetime), braille (from Louis Braille, a French teacher of the blind), welsch (from its inventor, Von Welsbach). But the next generation will probably have forgotten their derivations as completely as we have such words as silhouette and macadam.

An interesting thing about this kind of immortality is that it does not always follow the lines of a man's greatest distinction during his lifetime or even of the things he really cared for. Silhouette is an instance of an avocation producing greater fame than a vocation. Epicurean means, to all of us, one devoted to the luxuries of the table. Yet Epicurus, the old Greek philosopher from whom the word was derived, actually taught the beauty of simple living. Unfortunately he had an enemy who circulated false stories of epicurean banquets indulged in by Epicurus and his followers. The lie got the head-start and the truth hasn't overtaken it in twenty centuries.

Poor George Washington It rather looks as if the distinguished physician, Osler, because of a few words he once said about the time when a man's usefulness begins to decline, might leave some form of his name, such as Oslerism, in the language standing for the idea that man is no good over forty yet those few words were casual words and were not meant in the sense in which they were taken. Aside from them, Dr. Osler was a distinguished physician and made great contributions to science which the lay world knows nothing of.

One is reminded of George Washington, the dignified, and of the emblem which springs into existence in every shop when his birthday comes around. Poor George Washington, how he would have hated that hatchet and that cherry tree! Still I suppose he is rather lucky that "to Washington" has not come to mean to chop down a tree.

Try these delicacies occasionally and see how the family will enjoy them, while at the same time there will be a decided saving in the daily budget. There are also few more tasty ways of using up meat leftovers than by stuffing peppers with them.

For Torn Oilcloth—Adhesive plaster put on the under side of a cut in a piece of oilcloth will prevent the rent from spreading.

To Keep Wool White—When a white wool dress becomes slightly soiled, rub it with white unscented talcum powder immediately after you take it off. It should be rubbed over lightly, and not brushed off until the dress is worn again. This will keep the garment clean indefinitely. Talcum can be bought in bulk very cheaply.

Water Stains Removed—If the furniture, woodwork or any other varnished surface in your home becomes white with water stains, apply wood alcohol with a cloth and rub hard. You will be delighted with the result.

I am not poor, but I am proud

GETS DIVORCE AND $45,000

Weeping Wife's Sob Story Moves This Judge

Mrs. Helen Marie Patterson Heyworth

CHICAGO, June 18.—The admitted volcanic temperaments of Otto Young Heyworth, heir to the Otto Young millions, and Mrs. Helen Marie Patterson Heyworth, former actress, will no longer clash.

After hearing the young Mrs. Heyworth's story of desertion and neglect, Judge Ira Ryner indicated he would grant her a divorce.

A settlement of $37,500 cash was made with Mrs. Heyworth through her husband's mother, the present Countess de Korwin, and young Heyworth's attorneys. In addition Mrs. Heyworth will receive $7500 within a year.

The young wife, questioned by her attorney in court, said she married Heyworth in New York on September 26, 1919. They separated a year later.

"He became angry because I wouldn't go cabaretting with him," Mrs. Heyworth said. "He went out alone and I have not seen him since."

The wife said Otto Young, Chicago pioneer, left an estate of $16,000,000, which will go to the grandchildren after the death of Mr. Young's four daughters and the last surviving child reaches the age of 21.

Young Heyworth has an annual income of $7000 from the rental of the Auditorium hotel and $2000 from a trust fund created by his grandmother, Mrs. Anna Elizabeth Young.

He is also named as heir to an annual income of $100,000 in his mother's will, Mrs. Heyworth said.

The young wife, when asked how she treated her husband, wept for several minutes.

"I tried to treat him very kindly," she said when she had recovered.

Countess de Korwin, who arrived from New York for the hearing, testified her son had not lived with his wife for two years.

The countess took the lead in the settlement negotiations. Young Heyworth did not appear in court. He remained in a nearby room, conferring repeatedly with his mother.

Attorneys for both sides have characterized both Heyworth and his wife as possessing volcanic temperaments.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been corresponding with a young man for a short while and like him very much. About two weeks ago I answered his letter and I have not received an answer yet. He always answered the next day. He seems to like me a lot and told me he wanted to correspond with me.

There is another young man who lives only a short distance from me. I am afraid he got the letter the first young man wrote me, as he is very inquisitive about my mail. Do you think the boy who lives near me got my letter, or that the one I have been writing to has not answered?

I used to go with the boy who lives near me and he has been angry at me. Ever since we broke up he has said that if I didn't go with him he would see that I didn't go with anyone else. He has destroyed one of my letters before and I think he has destroyed this one. What would you advise me to do? Would you write to the boy again and see if he has answered?

THANK YOU.
It is a rare thing when mail is tampered with, but of course there is a possibility that the thing you fear is true. Write to your correspondent and say that you have not had an answer to your last letter and you want to know whether or not he has written. Explain that you have already lost one letter and you are afraid that mail is taken from your box.

I can see that you are afraid if the young man has not answered your letter he will misunderstand your writing again. In a case of doubt like this, however, it pays to be sincere. You want to know the truth and have every reason to investigate.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you please tell me how to use mange cure as my hair is coming out terribly. Is it necessary to shampoo right away or leave it on all night? Does it darken the hair? My hair is light brown. Is there any shampoo I can use to give it a reddish color or make it a little lighter?

I THANK YOU.
Directions for using mange cure go with the bottle. I have known people, however, who have had great success by putting it on once a week, letting it remain on over night and then shampooing the hair the next morning. It does not darken light hair.

Don't try to change the color of your hair, because the result would not be satisfactory. When rinsing the hair put the juice of half a lemon in the last water and it will help to bring out the color.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girls in our teens and we are deeply in love with two fellows a few years our senior. Our mothers and fathers object to our going with fellows as we are too young, but we keep company anyway. Do you think it is right for them to make us stay away from the boys? Must we stay in the house all the time?

We have dates to go to parties.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

Water

Water comprises about two-thirds of the body weight. We are all regular old soaks. Water is necessary for all of the body fluids and secretions, and is a part of every cell in the body. It holds the mineral salts and the building materials in solution until they are deposited where they are needed, and it carries away waste products.

So, must we have an adequate supply? Foolish question! If we are totally deprived of food and water we will die from thirst long before hunger is fatal.

A large amount of water is eliminated every day through the lungs, skin, kidneys and intestines. So a large amount must be taken every day, combined in the foods and in the form of drink, to supply the daily loss. Normally, from one to two quarts of water should be taken in fluid form in addition to that which is taken in the food. (Foods vary from 50 to 90 per cent in water.) Of course water drinking can be overdone, as can any good thing.

The bodies of babies and children contain more water in proportion to their weight than do adult bodies, and the restriction of water hinders their growth and development. "I want a drink" is perhaps the most familiar demand of childhood and it is one that has a big physiological need as a basis. We will have to allow our children to be heavy drinkers.

You have heard the story of the little girl whose mother, thinking that her demand for a drink in the night was a whim, threatened to spank her if she asked for it again. The little girl waited a little while, and then finally said: "Mama, when you get up to spank me, will you get me a drink?" That's pathetic, isn't it?

Unless you are sure of its purity, water should be boiled, or distilled water used. This is important for campers or vacationists who go where surface water may contaminate the water supply; otherwise typhoid fever may be an unpleasant aftermath.

Many cities purify their water supplies with freshly made chlorine of lime. In the proportions used it is harmless to man but deadly to germs. The death rate from typhoid fever has been reduced to one-fifth the original rate in some cases. Other water-borne diseases have also been markedly lessened. One grain (O-N-E G-R-A-I-N) to a quart of water will destroy all germs in a few minutes. (If you don't want to go to the trouble of boiling or sterilizing all the water used, and exercising the other precautions to prevent typhoid, be vaccinated against it. That will immunize you.)

It is highly important that the water given to babies be absolutely pure, for their intestinal tracts are so easily deranged. Many large epidemics have been traced to infected persons whose discharges have not been properly taken care of. The health departments have a big problem in keeping the water supply pure, and we should whole-heartedly support them in this and in all of their efforts to keep us free from disease.

In experiments upon animals it has been shown that large numbers of germs have to be taken by mouth before a disease will be contracted, for evidently in animals the intestinal tract destroys most of the germs. That may be true, to some extent, in man, when in perfect health; but as perfect health is not common, we cannot depend upon this.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

BY WEDITH MORIARTY

In this country, where women are entering so many unusual lines of work, we have many teachers of wood carving, etc.

Furniture repairing and cabinet making are a little different, however, and we venture the statement that there are not many women engaged in those lines of work in our broad land. In Pots-

Peschow is now in charge of her father's artistic furniture shop, where she does most of the repair work.

WOMAN RECEIVES DEGREE
Mrs. Anna G. Paddock of Clarence, N. Y., is the first woman in the state of New York to receive the degree of master of religious education. She has just completed a course at the Auburn Theological Seminary. She is planning to aid her husband, who is pastor of a church at Clarence.

WOMEN 100,000 YEARS AGO
What were women like a hundred thousand years ago? A number of French professors have been trying to find out, and some very interesting results have followed their search. They say that in the days when people lived in caves woman was just the most important of the two sexes. Men were only tolerated for the sake of the food and skins they provided. Women ruled everything, and almost every art and science we have today is due to the work of the women of thousands of years ago. Women taught men how to defeat famine by snaring animals and storing them for times when food would be unobtainable. Women taught men how to get skins to clothe themselves in the winter. Women, in fact, saved the human race from being destroyed. Since she was not strong enough to kill her enemies or provide food and clothing, woman had to use her wits and employ cunning instead of force. Every labor-saving device we have today is descended from the early invention of a woman.

TO STUDY PALESTINE
Mrs. Philip Snowden, wife of the eminent British labor party leader, is on her way from London to Palestine. She will investigate conditions there and the operation of the British mandate over the country in the interests of her nation and Zionism. She plans later to visit America to deliver a series of lectures on Zionism.

Gas heating, without flue connections, in bathrooms, is dangerous. The gas industry of America urges that its consumers provide against accidents by connecting bathroom gas appliances with flues.

Paralysis Need Not Be Wholly Terrifying

Weekly Health Talk No. 34.
By Drs. Eble & Eble, Ds.C.

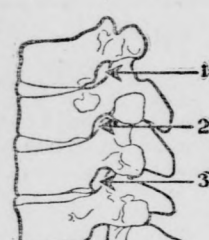

There are various forms of paralysis and neither the old or the young are immune. If your paralysis follows an accident, a strain, or the long continued pressure on spinal alignment of a bad posture, you need have no fear of it. But don't postpone seeing a chiropractor. In case of paralysis there is no method that will substitute for chiropractic spinal adjustments. To dally with any other method is to waste time and money.

A paralysis may affect any organ or part of the body. In Omaha a baby boy playing with another child of larger size tried to carry the big boy on his back. The little fellow's spine was twisted from alignment, paralyzing the stomach.

SUNLAND HOLD EXERCISES OF GRADUATION

Monte Vista School House
At Sunland Closes for Summer Months

The class rooms at the Monte Vista schoolhouse, Sunland, are deserted. The usual Monday morning clatter of childish voices was absent, and only the echoes of last term's recitations remained. School is out and the summer vacation is on.

Thursday night the parents and friends attended the commencement exercises that mark the entrance of the six graduates into a larger field of endeavor. The exercises were held in the school auditorium and four girls and two boys received the reward of their efforts in grammar school, a diploma of graduation.

An appropriate program was given, with musical numbers and recitations and a dance by one of the pupils. The first number was a song, "Lassie o' Mine," by two girls.

Lois Newcomb gave a recitation, Laura Harris read the salutatory, followed by a reading by Jack Crews, "Springtime and Vacation."

Alta Garner played a piano solo, followed by the class history by Landon Arnet.

Gertrude Thomson gave a reading, "Our Noble Women," followed by a piano duet.

Proud of Class
The class prophecy was made by Agnes Knight and Estella McCabe danced a solo number, "Gypsy Dance."

Alta Garner was class valedictorian, and her reading was followed by a song by seven girls.

C. C. Campbell, clerk of the board, then presented the graduates with their diplomas, and the class sang the class song, followed by the singing of "America" by all.

The class history is something the boys and girls are proud of and a high standard for the next class of graduates to follow as an example. The prophecy was optimistic, and if the graduates attain the distinction given them in this document they will be well favored by fortune.

The members of the graduating class were the guests of honor at a party given at Mrs. Garner's home a week ago and enjoyed games and refreshments to their hearts' content.

Laura Harris, read the salutatory, which was as follows:

"Kind friends, parents and schoolmates, we, the class of 1923, greet you, and while we spend a few short minutes at this time, our commencement, we trust it may be made a pleasant hour to you, as well as to ourselves."

"Our school room has been like an arena, but it is not an arena, however; it is only the training quarters where we have been made ready by our instructors for the battles that are yet to be. For our arena is the big, wide world outside. Our battle is to be a battle for ideals, for the welfare of our homes and the welfare of the homes of others."

"We are not, like soldiers, going to fight against each other, but with a common interest against a common foe. Equipped by our school, we are to fight ignorance, meanness and selfishness, and we know that victory will be ours, for the dawn of a new day of enlightenment has come to us. How glad is the student who can have a part in this great and wonderful work of leading our steps, and others, to the higher walks of life. For as we look out into the field of possibilities before us, we see the high school with outstretched hands ready to receive us, and when we are prepared, the normal school and college bid us enter and drink at the fountain of knowledge."

"Welcome to our commencement, then—the commencement of a new chapter in our lives. Welcome to our parents and the trustees, for it is to you we are indebted for this beginning, and with your approval and with your encouragement, we shall be able to enter fields of greater usefulness. Keep your eyes on the class of 1923."

The following are the graduates of the class of 1923: Laura Harris, Jack Crews, Alta Garner, Landon Arnet, Gertrude Thomson and Agnes Knight.

TUJUNGA AUXILIARY HOLDS SOCIAL GATHERING

Patriotic Program Proves Pleasing; Results of Club's Election

The American Legion Auxiliary of Post 250 held one of its enjoyable socials Thursday night at Legion hall, El Centro and Sunset boulevard. There were about fifty present to enjoy the program, which was appropriate of Flag day, and the 500 games played.

Several short speeches were made and solos and recitations made up an excellent program. An address appropriate to the day was made and small flags presented to each of the guests.

Among the numbers was a reading by Mrs. Wilson, one by Mrs. Anderson and an impersonation by Mrs. Bert Begue.

After the program the party danced to music furnished by Carl Brunner, who provided one of the victrolas for which he has the agency. Refreshments were served later in the evening.

Mrs. F. M. Snyder won the grand prize for women in 500 and Bob Walker won grand prize for gentlemen. Mrs. Bert Begue won the consolation prize for women and Mr. Tarpley for the men.

The date of the next social is for Thursday, June 28 at Legion hall. The auxiliary plans to give these socials often. They will probably be on the third Thursday of each month, as the executive meeting of the Legion is held on the first Thursday.

Club Election Returns
Complete election returns from the Woman's Club of Tujuanga headquarters and further particulars of their future plans are as follows:

Mrs. Nelson Jones, president, succeeding Mrs. Guy Barry; Mrs. Mary Mills, vice president; Mrs. E. T. Theobald, secretary; Mrs. George Buck, treasurer and Miss Elizabeth Benedict, auditor. Miss Zoe Gilbert was elected to succeed herself to the office of trustee and the officers were installed immediately following the election, which was held at the Community church.

Plans for annual picnic were made for Sycamore Grove, Los Angeles, but at the meeting, changed. The picnic and experience meeting will be held in one at the home of Mrs. Harriet Mills at 213 North San Ysidro street on Thursday, June 28.

The members of the club are to earn $1 and at the experience meeting relate how they earned it. The money raised in this manner will go toward the building fund for a new club house.

All members are invited to attend the picnic. Each member will bring a lunch for self and guest, and in addition will prepare some special dish to be shared by all. Mrs. Mills will serve punch. A list for comparison may be consulted at Miss Gilbert's or Mrs. Dean's, so that the special dishes will not be duplicated.

The committee on arrangements for the picnic is composed of the following: Mrs. George Buck, Mrs. May Dean, Miss Zoe Gilbert, Mrs. Mary Mills, Mrs. Blanche Bell and Mrs. Marie Frances to assist Mrs. Harriet Mills with the details.

Outdoor Wedding Service
A beautiful outdoor ceremony marked the marriage of Miss Caroline R. Bloore and Ray Andrews Wednesday at picturesque Hillhaven amphitheater. The ceremony was held at noon and was performed by the Rev. C. C. Sinclair, pastor of the Magnolia Avenue Christian church of Los Angeles and was witnessed by only a few relatives and close friends of the couple.

The bride is a sister of Charles J. Bloore, merchant, of Tujuanga, and has many friends in the city. She has resided there. Mr. Andrews is a rancher of San Ana, where the couple will make their home in the future.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Bloore and the happy couple departed for their new home.

D. E. Mills sold part of his property on East Vista boulevard to J. A. Gill, a candy manufacturer of Los Angeles, who plans to make Tujuanga his home in the near future.

Mr. Mills is building a bungalow on the property adjoining that sold to Mr. Gill and plans to rent or sell it later. Much of the laborious work of sawing the lumber has been eliminated by harnessing a saw shaft to the crankshaft of his car, a method employed by Mr. Mills with gratifying results.

J. M. Goode, formerly of the firm of Goode & Bobo, realtors, is occupying his new office at the corner of Walnut and Michigan avenues. The building was erected by Charles Keller.

A new bungalow is being erected on the rear of George Harris' lot at the corner of Greely and Pine streets.

The work on the new Home of Health sanitarium at the corner of Michigan avenue and Hillhaven road is progressing rapidly, under the direction of Richard Smith, contractor. The addition will comprise several rooms and accommodations for extra patients.

E. W. Schoch of 365 South Sycamore is building a substantial addition to his residence at that address.

The ornamental fireplace erected on Michigan avenue near Sunset has been illuminated by large electric lamps by the Tujuanga Electric Shop and show up to good advantage when turned on with the street lights at night.

Mr. Morgan is setting a good example by clearing his property at Greely and Sunset boulevard in anticipation of "Clean-Up" week, which has been inaugurated to reduce the fire hazard to a minimum by removing the brush and inflammable debris from vacant lots.

BURBANK WOMEN'S CLUB PLANS FESTIVAL

Board of Directors Are in Favor of Project; Legion Pilgrimage

The board of directors of the Women's club have recommended that the fall festival be held this year.

For the past two years the festival has not been held, due one year to conflict with the rodeo and the other to lack of a suitable location.

The directors are understood to have an excellent location in mind for the present affair, which they plan to open before resumption of school and continue for about four days.

This festival, or fair, has displayed in past seasons a great variety of local produce, largely fruits, flowers and vegetables, together with decorative exhibits.

Details of the plan will be worked out during the summer, provided the club adopts the recommendation of the board of directors.

It is felt that should these plans materialize, the event will be a big thing for the city and one of the most pretentious constructive programs the club has ever carried out.

Legion Pilgrimage
The band of Legionnaire pilgrimage who picnicked at Catalina Saturday and Sunday, June 16 and 17, report enjoying a most delightful time.

The show band of Legion Band, 125 pieces strong, furnished the music for the big parade of posts that took place Saturday night and was followed by a carnival.

The Forty and Eight put on a big vaudeville at midnight.

Too Much Water
The damp news has leaked out at last! William Gates' suit he had on the day he "wassled" with the fire hydrant at Turkey Crossing is dry again.

The show band had had William Gates, of the police department, was on a tour of inspection, observing the progress of affairs at the detour.

Stepping on the accelerator of his machine at an inopportune moment, the vehicle rolled into a convenient fire plug, snapping it fairly at the pockets.

Then two things happened in quick succession. Water flew from the hydrant and Gates flew to the water. The result was a good ducking but a poor shut-off job.

Then Comes Thrill
The water continued to flow. Meanwhile the act had gathered an appreciative audience who stood in the orchestra pit offering apt suggestions.

Suddenly everyone got a thrill. While grappling with the unruly H2O, Gates shot a dizzy stream up among the high voltage wires overhead — and while some waited for the apocalypse, others flinched.

Nothing happened, however, except that Gates stepped from his bath and decided he would let the water department cope with the situation—which they did, with much greater caution, realizing that water is one of the best conductors of electricity and that a likely way to "grab a harp" would be to squirt up a stream that would make a contact with the deadly wires.

Personal Notes
J. N. Fulford, a newspaper man from Chamberlain, S. Dak., paid a recent visit to his old friend, F. H. Dodge, at the latter's home on Verdugo avenue. The two were intimate in South Dakota thirty years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Martino have moved from the Gerda apartments to 403 Tujuanga avenue.

Mrs. O. J. Bourne from Salt Lake City has been the guest of her niece, Mrs. M. S. Jones of Angeleno avenue.

Mrs. T. G. King is entertaining her niece, Miss Fawn Lowe, from Mesquite New.

Mrs. Palmquest is enjoying a visit from her sister, Mrs. Estelle Lawrence from Oakland.

Mrs. W. H. Williams from San Jose is visiting her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Code Morgan of Angeleno avenue.

Mrs. M. R. Randall and two daughters, the Misses Norma and Reta Randall from Green Park, Camp Lewis, Wash., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Bossuet and daughters of Olive avenue.

Mrs. Locke from Pasadena has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Martin Pupke of Olive avenue.

Mrs. Lamer of 420 East Sixth street, has learned of the death of Col. Sidney Cloman, the husband of her sister-in-law, who had recently returned from South America, where he went for his health.

P. O. to Ask Receipt on Special Deliveries

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Beginning July 1, personal receipts will be required in the delivery of mail bearing special delivery stamps, the postoffice department has announced. The adoption of the individual receipts plan has been ordered by Postmaster-General New for the purpose of reducing to a minimum the number of losses by petty larceny. It is estimated that 100,000,000 receipts will be taken annually.

EAGLE ROCK BOY SCOUTS ARE READY FOR CAMP

Eagle Rock Lads to Have Big Time in Hills; Masons May Build

Eagle Rock Boy Scouts will conduct a ten-day camp near Arrowhead lake, from July 10 to 19, announces Dr. Harry B. Crawford, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

During this period the camp will be for the exclusive use of Eagle Rock, Tujuanga and La Crescenta Scout troops, each of which will select a separate site for their camp, to be under the personal leadership of their own scoutmasters.

The Verdugo Hills District Council, of which Eagle Rock is a part, will furnish general supervision, equipment, campsite, shelter tents, first-aid equipment, commissary supplies—and, most important of all, in the Scouts' way of thinking, a real camp cook who knows how.

Leaders' Conference
In addition to the regular ten-day camp, there will be a patrol leaders' conference, from June 27 to 30, at which only leaders who are signed up for the troop camps will attend.

The site of the camp is situated in the Angeles national forest, eight-and-a-half miles from Eagle Rock and three and one-half miles from Arrowhead, at the "V" of the fork where Hook creek joins Bear creek.

The name of the site is Camp Roy L. Kent, so designated in honor of the individual of that name, a citizen of Glendale, who has been an outstanding figure in Boy Scout work, and was largely responsible for securing the site as a permanent Scout camp.

The situation is ideal, Dr. Crawford states, the camp being surrounded by giant fir, pine and alder trees, with a good mountain road leading from Arrowhead and many picturesque trails accessible.

Masonic Matters
The building committee of the local Masonic order has hopes of providing the members with a building of their own before 1923 closes. They announce they have made $12,000 profit on a cash sale of the Central avenue lot, and have purchased two more lots, one at the corner of Castle and Stanley avenues.

The "Trestle Board" is now being made use of by "The Architect of the Work," is the good word of cheer. In this regard it was noted (or should have been) that the members of the Burbank lodge will visit the local brethren on Wednesday, June 20, and on the following night a large delegation will return the compliment, ample vehicular transportation being pledged for all who wish to go.

M. W. Grandmaster William A. Sherman, will make this district an official visit Saturday night, June 23, at the Scottish Rite cathedral, Hope street near Tenth street, Los Angeles. Master Masons are invited and will be vouchered for at the door, it is announced.

On Wednesday, June 27, at 7:30 o'clock, the third degree will be conferred by James H. Mosher, senior warden, at which time G. W. Marshall, inspector will be present.

Saturday, July 21, has been set as the day of the annual picnic. The place has not yet been decided.

Social and Personal
Richard Pickett distinguished himself by winning the pie-eating contest at the Southern California Retail Lumber Dealers' association annual picnic at Brookside park, Pasadena, June 9.

E. E. Harwood, for three years superintendent of the Eagle Rock schools, has accepted a position at Hermosa Beach, and will remove to that location.

W. B. Wiedhoff, of 305 East Ellwood drive, is entertaining his sister, Miss J. R. Robinson, from Chicago, who is very much impressed with this section.
